SNIPER MESSED UP BY MARINES?

EMIL BENOIST
'Really... Messed Up'

HACKETTSTOWN, N.J. (AP) — "He had to have snapped," a friend of Emil Benoist said today after the youth who didn't make it in the Marines and left few marks as a boxer went on a shooting spree — leaving seven dead, including himself.

Police say Benoist, 20, son of a former Hackettstown councilman in this community of 12,000 in northwest New Jersey, walked along a railroad right of way with a .44-caliber rifle late Friday, picking off hikers, joggers and bikers.

Benoist lurked behind bushes near the railroad tracks and popped out to shoot his victims along the path, police said.

Police received a report of shots fired at 5:36 p.m., but it took them nearly four hours to catch up with Benoist.

At first they found three victims, all shot several times, behind an abandoned lannery adjacent to the railroad tracks.

About 10 minutes later, the crew of a westbound ConRail train sighted three other victims, all riddled with bullets, alongside the track about a half-mile away in Mansfield Township.

Police from surrounding communities joined local and state police and canine units in a search for the killer.

They were going through a cornfield when an officer spotted Benoist on the ground atop his weapon, officials said. The officer approached Benoist and began to tell him he was under arrest. But the suspect "shot himself through the face," said James Courter, first assistant Warren County prosecutor.

Friends of Benoist in this tree-lined community blamed a short stint in the Marines at Parris Island, S.C., about a year ago for what they say was a personality change in Benoist.

"He wasn't as tense or as bottled up before he went in. He really came back messed up," one friend said.

One friend said she had seen Benoist two days ago and that he didn't appear troubled. He liked his construction job for the state transportation department, she said.

Benoist was eliminated this summer in the Golden Gloves boxing championships. His father, Pierre, a civic leader here, also had been a Golden Glover.

The three victims killed in Hackettstown were identified by police as David Galvin, 14, of Hackettstown; Stephen Werner, 20, whose address was unknown; and Robert Visconti, 35, of Great Meadows.

Three other victims were killed in nearby Mansfield Township. They were: William Nagle, 37, of Mansfield; Jeffrey L. Gianquitti, 19, of Hackettstown; and Clifford Sowers, 38, of nearby Washington Boro.

BIG ONES: Joyce Millis, 18, Karen Hysell, 19, both of Eau Claire, exhibit two king-size puffball mushrooms found in orchard near Eau Claire by Karen's father, Donald Anderson. They plan to slice and freeze them for winter eating. Larger one is 30 inches in length, and weighed an estimated 15 to 20 pounds. (Staff photo)

Canada May Challenge French Law

QUEBEC, Canada (AP) — A federal constitutional challenge may be mounted against a controversial law passed by the Quebec legislature that makes French the official language of this province in eastern Canada.

French is the language of five million of Quebec's six million residents.

Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau, a native of Quebec, opposed the language bill and promised to investigate the constitutionality of the legislation once it was passed. Such a study could lead to a court challenge of the bill, sources said.

Postmaster Jean-Jacques Blais said Friday the cabinet will meet soon in Ottawa to decide what action to take. He did not give a date for the meeting.

Bill 101, the Charter of the French Language, was passed by a 54-32 vote Friday and signed into law a few hours later by Lt. Gov. Hugues Lapointe, the ceremonial representative of the British crown here.

The law provides that educational institutions, businesses and government agencies must use French in their operations.

The measure was the first major initiative of the separatist Parti Quebecois provincial government, led by Premier Rene Levesque. After his election last November, Levesque promised a referendum on independence for Quebec. No date has been set for that vote.

The chief opposition party in parliament, the Progressive Conservatives, also supports a constitutional challenge of the law on grounds it infringes on the rights of Quebec's English-speaking minority.

Camille Laurin, Quebec's cultural development minister, says he is confident the province would win any court test initiated by the federal government. "We are convinced that what we propose falls within the jurisdiction of Quebec."

Of the more than five million French-speaking Canadians, approximately four-fifths are concentrated in Quebec.

Representatives of Quebec's English-speaking minority had harsh criticism for the bill, accusing the Parti Quebecois of "bulldozing" it through the National Assembly in time for the school year.

The most controversial provision of the bill mandates that English schools be open only to children whose mother or father went to English elementary schools in Quebec. The handicapped and temporary residents are exempt from that provision.

British Workers Shout Down Strike

BIRMINGHAM, England (AP) — More than 2,000 workers at the state-owned British Leyland auto plant at Longbridge torpedoed a strike due to start Friday by marching through the complex chanting: "We want to work." They stormed the offices of union officials who called the Longbridge strike and told them to "get stuffed," a British epithet that, politely translated, means "forget it." After a furious argument, the men passed a no-confidence vote on the union officials, who then called off the strike — at least for the time being. Protest leader Ronnie Mills, a paint shop worker, told the union chiefs: "The majority of us want to stay at work." The so-called "march of the moderates" was a rare move by Leyland's traditionally militant workers, who have a bad strike record in an industry that has been brought close to ruin by walkouts in recent years. The protest averted a challenge to the Labor government's anti-inflation policy limiting pay hikes to a maximum of 10 per cent every 12 months. It also forestalled disruption in Britain's auto industry. The union leaders called the strike to demand a 47 per cent raise. That would have given the 20,000 workers at the plant $54.25 more a week on their $112.75-dollar base rate. The management of the financially troubled auto giant refused the demand and said the government's pay limits must apply. It countered the strike threat by circulating a package deal that would give most workers in its 36 plants raises of up to $43.75 a week over the next two years. That apparently satisfied the workers at Longbridge.

Long Ordeal Over For Abducted Boy

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — Ten-year-old Christopher Linbo is home today, unharmed after spending 20 hours huddled on the floor of a kidnaper's car.

Authorities charged Edmund Michael Dunn, 22, with kidnapping after police staked out a ransom pickup point and later shot out the tires of the Tacoma man's car. Dunn, who pleaded innocent on Friday, will stand trial Oct. 19.

"I knew everything was going to turn out alright," young Linbo said at his parents' modest home. "And it did, too, huh, Dad?"

Christopher was abducted Wednesday evening while walking home from a friend's house. When he failed to show up for dinner, his parents became concerned.

Later that evening, the couple received a telephone call and a demand for $6,500 ransom.

"It was the scariest thing that ever happened to me," said Mrs. Linbo, whose husband is a printer for the Clover Park School District. "I don't want to get revenge for this. But to think that he could get out and do it again..."

Christopher, who was allowed to telephone home three times during the 20-hour ordeal, said the man wanted to know all about his parents.

"He put a blanket over me up to here," the boy said, pointing a finger at his throat. "I didn't sleep much. I stayed there all the time."

He said he was fed candy bars, hamburgers and french fries.

The ordeal ended after Pierce County authorities, who had staked out the ransom pickup area on Thursday, chased the abductor and shot out the front tires of his car.

The money was recovered, and Christopher was released, unharmed, but a little mystified.

"When all those detectives came out with all their guns, I about fainted," he said.

Police Say Niles Boys Stole, Spent $1,626 In Cash

By JOHN DYE
South Berrien Bureau
NILES. — Five Niles boys have been arrested in connection with the theft last weekend of $1,626 from the Westside Super grocery store, 715 Chicago road, but not before all of the cash was spent, city police said.

Police said two of the boys, both 15, have been lodged in the Berrien county juvenile detention center at Berrien Center. Three other boys, two age 15 and the third an 11-year-old, were petitioned into probate court and then released to the custody of their parents.

All five face charges of larceny in a building, police said. Officers yesterday said that all of the money taken from the store had been spent, but officers did confiscate a stereo, two skateboards and a belt buckle, all believed purchased with the cash.

One of the arrested boys told police that the money was taken on two different occasions last weekend, with $126 taken on Saturday, and $1,500 taken on Sunday.

Police said the cash was divided between the five boys and spent at a variety of stores in Niles and South Bend, Ind.

The boys were taken into custody after the mother of one of the boys contacted officers. She had become suspicious because of the spending money her son had, police said.

Carnival Missing

ESTHERVILLE, Iowa (AP) — The youngsters of Estherville have been waiting for the carnival for four days. "We don't know where it is," said Dan Bubb, a member of the Estherville Chamber of Commerce. "We know it left Marshall, Minn., Sunday but we haven't been able to locate it since then." Bubb, chairman of a three-day Harvest of Value Days chamber promotion that began Thursday, said he made arrangements for the project. Bubb said he called the carnival's home base in Alma, Kan., but the telephone company has no listing for it there. "I'm not going to tell you what they've said," Bubb said of the disappointed children. "But I think they're ready to tar and feather me."

Michigan 'Instant Game' Attracts Israeli Officials

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Michigan lottery has treated two Israeli officials who came to study it just like most residents. They lost.

Israel is considering beginning an "instant game" like the one in Michigan and several other states. The games accompany two weekly contests. Moshe Talman, deputy director of the Israeli national lottery, and Gideon Lerman, a government printer, arrived this week to visit the New York and Michigan state lotteries and go to Atlanta to meet with a firm which manufactures instant lottery games.

They got a conducted tour of the Michigan facility Friday from Lottery Commissioner Gus Harrison.

"This is our current game," said Harrison, showing Talman the state's instant ticket.

"Yes, I tried it yesterday," the Israeli official replied sadly. He purchased four of the $1 cards. He won only a free ticket with one of them, and that free ticket turned up a loser, too.

"I had the intention to win something," shrugged Talman. "I bought in Albany, but I didn't win. But I still hope to win." The Israelis hope to win much more than a few dollars in prizes from their visit. An instant game, they said, would give the 26-year-old national lottery new vitality and bring in a lot of money.

The Israel lottery consists of two weekly games, a regular ticket which also includes an "instant" number for small additional prizes, and a contest in which participants select their own numbers in hopes they match the number selected.

In contrast, the Michigan instant game sells separate tickets with both the number to be matched and the possible matches hidden under a waxy surface.

Israel sells roughly 900,000 lottery tickets a week, grossing 12 million Israeli pounds (about $1.4 million). The net gain is earmarked for schools and hospitals. The Michigan lottery's average weekly gross is just over $5 million.

Outhudding HUD--Or How To Grab Grants

The only solace to misery and mistakes is that somewhere somebody is worse off or committed a greater booboo than you.

The current law suit over how five local units, Benton township, Benton Harbor, the Benton Harbor school district, Niles township, and the Berrien county government, should split a $2.77 million grant from the Economic Development Administration pales before an argument over a Housing and Urban Development grant near Allentown in eastern Pennsylvania.

The five contestants in our area have until next Friday to agree upon a division or Judge Noel Fox of the federal district court will slice the cheese for them.

The dispute arouse over EDA tentatively giving Benton township nearly 40 per cent of the total grant and denying any allocation to Benton Harbor. The Benton Harbor rejection rested on an earlier grant of $5 million to Lake Michigan College. LMC has a Benton Harbor postal address and EDA assumed it was situated within the city. Upon discovering the college is located in Benton township, EDA reversed its grant to the township.

The township then sued EDA and the other four have joined in the fray to protect their claims.

The Allentown dispute is a classic example of governmental fumbling with taxpayers money.

Up until three years ago HUD distributed its rehabilitation funding on a per capita formula. Any community, whether or not it required rehabilitation, received something.

This thwarted the concept of rebuilding rundown areas.

Congress changed the formula in 1974 by giving block grants to the heavily populated areas with discretion to spend the money on projects of the local government's choosing.

Using 50,000 population as the dividing line between urban and nonurban communities, Congress continued the prior requirement of the nonurban area having to petition HUD on specific projects.

HUD ladles out the money on a point basis.

If a community can show it is 100 per cent down the drain, it will come ahead of a neighbor which sports only 90 per cent degradation.

Some months ago HUD's Philadelphia office announced it had $500,000 it could distribute to local units outside Allentown which is 45 miles north from the City of Brotherly Love.

The whole area has been in the shadows because railroading and anthracite coal mining are not what they used to be. The distinction in the shadowing is its depth between communities.

This raised a hurdle for the governing fathers of Whitehall township.

Taken as a whole it is better off than nearby units. Though a rating of 36 per cent of its residents as poor is far above the national average it is considerably below the percentage of its neighbors.

East Fullerton, a village within the township, is the prime sore spot. Its lower income group is 60 per cent of the population.

The Whitehall government wants to upgrade East Fullerton by building a new water line and housing rehabilitation grants.

Sensing it could lose HUD's point battle to any one of its neighbors, Whitehall hired Steven Weinberg, a Scanton consultant, who can thread his way through the regulations maze with greater certainty than Fido heading for the kitchen.

Mr. Weinberg made two passes with his pencil.

He isolated the East Fullerton statistics from the township, knowing that HUD reaches a decision on a paperwork presentation and does not personally inspect the site from which the figures are sent.

Another factor in the point system is how much assistance a community receives from its state government. The less it receives the more HUD credits on the point scale.

While Whitehall's neighbors were obtaining fairly large amounts from Pennsylvania's Department of Community Affairs, Mr. Weinberg had his client apply for a mere $2,000. This self denial alone gave Whitehall the maximum HUD brownie point rate of 10 out of a possible 100 points.

Whitehall finished the statistical battle with 74.99 points.

HUD's regional office awarded the $500,000 to the township. Unless its outraged neighbors can get to Patricia Roberts Harris, HUD's Secretary, or Jimmy Carter, the decision appears likely to stand up.

Throughout the 1976 campaign, Jimmy promised he would make the bureaucracy more responsive to the public.

The Whitehall experience is one of countless illustrations showing the bureaucrats don't put much stock in what their newest boss man said should be done.

Bureaucracy At Work With Garbage Trucks

For reasons not yet explained by the Carter administration, the propensity for promoting regulation is multiplying in the administration which came to power largely on the promise of making government a good bit simpler than it was.

So far as government bureaucracy is concerned, 1976 already is beginning to look like part of the good old days. A recent example of what is in store for the future is the Environmental Protection Agency's campaign for quieter garbage trucks.

The decibel rating of garbage trucks (you did know they had one, didn't you?) currently is 93. The EPA wants that reduced to 78 decibels beginning Jan. 1, 1979. So precise is the EPA's sounding on the matter that it has decided the maximum allowable noise will be as recorded exactly 23 feet from the truck.

Assuming anyone attempts to enforce such a ruling, the possibilities become endless. Essential, of course, would be an inspector — equipped with a 23-foot tape and noise recorder — to spotcheck garbage trucks along their routes for compliance.

Surveys taken following the EPA announcement found it wasn't the trucks most homeowners complained about, but the men rattling cans. Are the crews to be decibel-rated too? But garbage trucks are only one of many items on the EPA's noise abatement list. Jackhammers and lawn mowers also are due for the treatment.

Each such ruling handed down by the EPA naturally costs the consumer money, either in the form of higher taxes or prices. So far, his squawk apparently isn't loud enough for the EPA to pay attention.

Reader Says Marijuana Is Safer Than Alcohol

Editor,
Two pieces have appeared in your newspaper recently following Carter's proposal for federal decriminalization of marijuana. Both are full of exaggeration, speculation and other misleading "information."

The editorial described marijuana as a "mild narcotic." This is inaccurate. A narcotic is a drug such as opium which kills pain, induces sleep, and with prolonged use becomes physically addictive. Tetrahydrocannabinol (THC), the active ingredient in marijuana, is not a narcotic drug. Its effect is euphoric, not narcotic. The Michigan Supreme Court recognized this five years ago when it held criminal classification of marijuana as a narcotic to be impermissible.

Comparison of marijuana and alcohol does not flatter booze.

The editor states that marijuana "blurs reality," and may lead to "stimulate anti-social desires and conduct." The user "does not have full control of his faculties," and is unfit to drive or operate machinery. The opposed to aggressive behavior.

Alcohol use often produces hostile and aggressive behavior. It has been linked to homicide, sex and other crimes by numerous studies. Over half of all arrests involve alcohol-related offenses. Alcohol's role in traffic accidents is common knowledge.

Medically it fares no better. In addition to the well-known post-use syndrome (hangover), physical addiction (alcoholism) is widespread, perhaps epidemic. Alcoholics who abstain experience withdrawal (DT's). Damage to the brain and liver are only two of the many ill effects of chronic alcohol use. Millions of alcohol-related deaths (including overdose) occur every year.

Marijuana has extremely low toxicity. There has never been a documented case of death from overdose of marijuana, even though its use predates recorded history. For this reason, among others, THC's clinical use has mushroomed in the last decade. It is now used to treat glaucoma and asthma, induce appetite in cancer patients, as an antidepressant, and in other ways.

There is no need to wait for further research. The findings have been in since the publication in 1975 of Ganja in Jamaica by Drs. Rubin and Comitas of the Research Institute for the Study of Man. This seminal study showed no significant psychological difference between extremely heavy users and non-users of marijuana, and no physical differences except possible lung damage. The tar in pot smoke causes the damage, not the THC. Tobacco's psychoactive ingredient, incidentally, is nicotine, a deadly poison.

Carter's proposal is (surprise!) largely symbolic. Federal prosecutors do not pursue one-ounce-or-less possession cases anyway. That job (and raising the money to carry it out) is left to the states. Our tax money should be spent on combating hard drugs and drug abuse generally, not on nickel-same is true, of course, of alcohol.

But alcohol is more dangerous than marijuana. The scientific evidence now available proves that marijuana does not pose the threat to health or public safety that alcohol already wreaks upon society. It is not physically addictive, and generally leads to passive, as Congress Slipping On Civil Rights?

WASHINGTON — Americans for Democratic Action, the faithful torch-bearers of liberalism, have warned that the flame of civil rights is flickering on Capitol Hill this year.

Congress, according to ADA, is bowing spinelessly before an ill wind from the right and undermining 20 years of hard-won progress.

The evidence? Why, it's right there in the negative votes on busing, abortion, gay rights, "affirmative action" and veterans benefits for Vietnam holders of less-than-honorable discharges that may be upgraded in the future.

Well, ... maybe. Perhaps ADA is right. Yet its analysis may say as much about the changing nature of "civil rights" challenges as it does about the cooling of congressional ardor on such matters.

It was all so much simpler, a decade or so ago, to distinguish civil rights from wrongs.

Those on Capitol Hill and elsewhere who fought to guarantee all Americans the right to vote, access to places of public accommodation, equal employment opportunities and fair housing were blessed with an unshakable faith that their cause was just.

The courts said so, and the churches. The college professors said so, and their students. Community leaders said so, and common folk. And in the White House, a towering Texan courageously confronted the shame of a century and told his countrymen that "we shall overcome."

But where, on issues like busing and abortion, is that glorious moral certitude of yesterday? How can members of Congress be expected to discern the paths of righteousness, let alone follow them, when our society is so deeply and passionately divided on such questions?

Take busing, for example, since it falls within the racial context we commonly associate with "civil rights" issues.

Where is it written, in the laws of man or God, that busing is a "right," a very functional or otherwise? It is no more than a tool to remedy past wrongs and promote a goal of equal educational opportunity. Like any means to an end, its effectiveness is a legitimate subject for debate. Rejecting the means does not necessarily signify a disavowal of the end.

Abortion is an even stickier test of congressional commitment in civil rights. Both the House and Senate have voted to deny federal funding for abortions sought by women too poor to pay for them on their own.

Obviously, that is a discriminatory act since affluent women will still be able to obtain abortions with a doctor's approval under terms of the Supreme Court's original ruling that created such a furor earlier in this decade.

Yet, who is to say that congressmen who refuse to vote for public financing of abortions are violating civil rights of the poor if they genuinely believe that the willful termination of a pregnancy constitutes a denial of the most fundamental right of all, the right to life?

The other votes cited by ADA as proof of congressional backsliding on civil rights involved Vietnamese veterans benefits, gay rights and "affirmative action" procedures of HEW.

ADA detects, in all of these a pattern of congressional hostility towards "the rights of the poor, minorities, women and those choosing a life style different from the norm." And the liberal group bemoans "the absence of any visible public outrage" at such actions by longtime civil rights advocates. Perhaps civil rights supporters have been napping, as ADA seems to feel. But maybe they simply failed to share ADA's perceptions of what constitutes a "civil rights" issue.

Rhodesia's Fault Is White Racism

In a recent essay, the brilliant strategic analyst James Burnham asks an obvious but, so far as I know, previously unraised question. The question has not been raised previously, I think because the answer is so, well... inconvenient.

Burnham assumes that we are not witnessing the beginning of the last act for the white regime in Rhodesia. There is no doubt, in Burnham's view, that some form of black rule will soon prevail in Rhodesia.

But, and here is his question, Why Rhodesia? "What is it about the present government of Rhodesia that has united all the nations of the world in a resolve to destroy it? What can explain this extraordinary situation that has, I believe, no precedent?"

As possible answers to the question Why Rhodesia? he considers five answers:

1. Because the Ian Smith government is non-democratic and despotic. Obviously that is no answer, since most of the world's 150 or so governments are non-democratic. Some 5 per cent of Rhodesia's population enjoy full democratic rights — a fact that would in itself put the country well up on any global democratic scale.

The other 95 per cent do not enjoy such rights, but even for them the legal protections and civil rights are superior to those prevailing in many other countries, including some of their immediate neighbors. Finally, on this point, it is certain that any black government coming to power in Salisbury will be less democratic than the Smith regime.

2. Because the Rhodesian government is aggressive and a threat to peace. Obviously ridiculous. "All aggressive moves in the Rhodesian circumstance have been directed at, not by, Rhodesia."

3. Because the Rhodesian government violates human rights. The answer here is about the same as in explanation 1. Though human rights among the Rhodesian blacks may not be in a flourishing condition, that fact does not make Rhodesia unique. In many other nations, human rights are now being violated much more seriously than in Rhodesia.

4. Because the Rhodesian government is racist. Well, of course, "racism" is one of the great terms of abuse in the modern vocabulary; but surely racism flourishes in other countries besides Rhodesia. The treatment of Uganda's Indian population is a case in point, or the treatment of the Chinese minority in Indonesia. The Cuban military and political hierarchy is conspicuously white. Racism is hardly a uniquely Rhodesian phenomenon. As Burnham writes, "No one even bothers to remember the ferocious racist vengeance visited on the racist Arab rulers of Zanibar by the racist blacks who overthrew them in 1964." So the fact of racism cannot explain the peculiar status of Rhodesia.

5. Because the Rhodesian government is white racist. This, argues Burnham, is the correct answer. Mere racism is no crime. In fact, it is practically pervasive. No, it is specifically white racism that is unforgivable. "And, as in every crusade, the banner is unfurled: Death to the Infidel. Ian Smith is not, however, the last of the infidels, and it does not seem likely that this will be the last Crusade. It has more the flavor of an appetizer."

Mercy Given Gifts Of Offices, $10,000

BY JIM SHANAHAN
City Editor

Mercy hospital announced today the hospital has received a gift from Joseph E. Carver — a medical office building at 928 Pipestone street, Benton Harbor, across the street from street Mercy. Known as the Anthony Medical building, the structure was part of the estate of Carver's wife, Helen Anthony Carver, who died a year ago. C.T. Loftus, executive vice president, also announced that Carver recently donated $10,000 cash to the hospital in memory of Mrs. Carver.

The gifts were accepted by the Mercy board of trustees of which Carver is a member. The board praised his generosity to Mercy and the community over the years.

The medical building contains four suites of offices currently occupied by three physicians and an electrologist. Loftus said no change in operation is contemplated.

Verlin Harder, Mercy controller, said the hospital has not yet determined what rental income the building produces and other details of its operation.

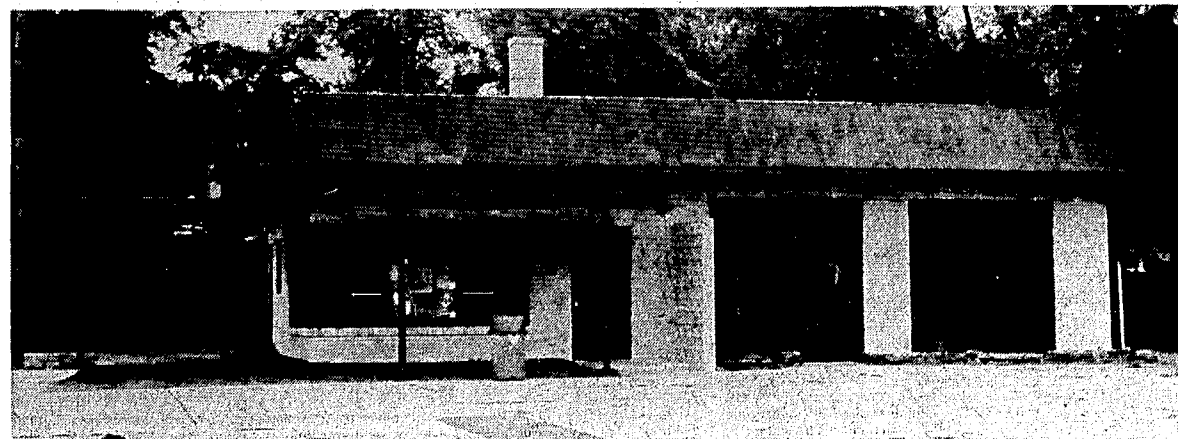

The building has been appraised at approximately $37,500.

Deadbeat Dad Is Jailed

A Benton Harbor father was ordered jailed for the first week of a two-year probation term for failing to pay child support. James A. Roseburgh, Jr., of 1135 McAllister avenue, was sentenced this week by Berrien Circuit Judge Julian E. Hughes for contempt of court. Chief Investigator Edward Pastick, of the Berrien friend of the court's office, said Roseburgh was in arrears $1,149 in support payments for one child. Roseburgh was ordered to find work after his release from jail and pay $10 weekly in child support and $7 weekly on the arrearage. Also this week Hughes sentenced Sterling Wilson, of 129 South Winans street, Benton Harbor, to a two-year probation term. He was found in contempt of court for an arrearage of $2,710 for one child on ADC. Pastick said he was ordered to begin making weekly payments of $21 in support and $10 on the arrearage.

CONVERSION: James Peebles Jr. bought an abandoned service station at 869 East Main street, Benton Harbor, did "about 90 per cent of the work myself" and converted it into attractive building housing two businesses — the Purple Cow dairy bar at left run by his wife, Harriet, and Vantage Accounting service operated by Peebles. Purple Cow features ice cream, sandwiches and other refreshments. Vantage Accounting provides federal and state income tax preparation, and full service bookkeeping, Peebles said.

BUSINESSMATES: James and Harriet Peebles operate adjoining businesses at 869 East Main street. She's in refreshments and snacks, and he's in accounting. Peebles is former Benton Harbor city manager and finance director. (Staff photos)

Washington School Parents Will Meet

By JIM SHANAHAN
City Editor

A group of parents opposed to the transfer of students from Washington elementary school, St. Joseph, has called a meeting Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the Unitarian church, 601 Main street.

Announcement was made by Mrs. Foster (Barbara) Willey who said parents want to learn reasons for the transfer of 43 students and discuss the future of "your neighborhood school."

She said Burton Aldrich, superintendent of schools has been invited, and John Pielmeier, president of the board of education, said a board representative will be at the meeting.

Mrs. Willey said all parents in the Washington attendance area are invited and anyone else interested in neighborhood schools in St. Joseph.

The St. Joseph board of education voted 6 to 1 Monday to transfer 43 fourth, fifth and sixth graders out of Washington to other schools this year. This was part of budget cutting that means three less teachers. James Mason, board vice president, cast the dissenting vote saying all the transfers should not be from one school. Washington school at 709 Main street is the closest school to the central downtown. The St. Joseph school district operates five other elementary schools.

The announcement of Monday's meeting issued by Mrs. Willey said:

"A number of parents in the Washington school area feel that a meeting to share information and the feelings caused by the school board action might alleviate some of the anxieties that the parents in the area are feeling now."

"If you would like a better understanding of the future of your neighborhood school and the prospects of your children in the St. Joseph school system, bring your questions and concerns to the parents information meeting Monday."

Mrs. Willey said she objects to the transfers but her objections would lessen if transfers can be shown as a necessity.

"However, I would still object to the wait was handled without prior notice."

Mrs. Willey, 1009 Court street, is the mother of a sixth grader in the Washington attendance area. She said yesterday she believes there is only "a remote possibility" that her daughter, Serena, would be transferred but she is concerned about the future of Washington.

Mrs. Willey said other members of the committee calling the meeting are Mr. and Mrs. Joe Richetti, Mr. and Mrs. John Calsbeck, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Silverthorn, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Carlson, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Trumbley, Mr. and Mrs. Tom MacFarlane, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Wycoff.

POLICE ROUNDUP

Intruder Is Given A Noisy Sendoff

A Benton Harbor woman told police Friday that she fired a shot in the air as a man climbed out of a window at her home early Friday.

No one was injured, police indicated, but the occupant, Annie Burns, 31, of 848 Lavette street, reported that the intruder stole her purse, containing $15 in cash and papers. Police said Mrs. Burns reported she saw a man at the window, ran to another room to get a gun and returned to find the man departing. She said she fired a shot outside the window in the air to make certain he didn't remain nearby. No suspect was located, police said.

Benton Harbor police at 11:08 a.m. Friday arrested William J. Nolan, 61, Mattoon, Ill., and booked him on charges of carrying a concealed weapon and drunk and disorderly.

Sgt. Phil Schneider said the arrest was made at the Benton Harbor fruit market after officers received complaints that a man was swearing at and starting fights with farmers. A loaded .38 caliber pistol was seized, police said.

Bill Crompton, manager of Fountain View apartments, 4119 Red Arrow highway, Lincoln township, told Berrien sheriff's deputies Friday afternoon that outdoor redwood furniture valued at $900 had been stolen over the past two weeks. Listed were four tables and eight benches.

Kenneth Peters told deputies Friday afternoon that a mini-bike, valued at $100, was stolen from the yard at his home, 3595 Oxbow road, Sodas township.

Wiring Blamed For SJ Blaze

St. Joseph firemen said a blaze in electrical wiring caused minor damage about 2:10 p.m. Friday, at the home of Jim Nix, 08 Church street. Firemen said a circuit overload caused wiring to burn inside a kitchen wall.

Benton Harbor firemen at 1:48 p.m. Friday, extinguished a blaze in a metal trash bin behind Rex Auto Parts, 447 East Main street. There was no damage, firemen said.

SJ Firms Protest New Zoning Plans

BY LARRY MACINTYRE
Staff Writer

A group of businessmen who own and operate industries in the Silver Beach area of St. Joseph have announced plans to protest a proposed new city zoning ordinance that would put their plants in a water recreational district.

The businesses would become nonconforming under the entirely new water recreation district zoning, and as such, would be prevented from expanding or renovating.

The businessmen are raising the protest on behalf of IPM Development Engineering, the Dixon Beverage Co., Crown Inc., janitorial supplies, and Horan Red-Mix Inc. All are located below the bluff between Broad street and the St. Joseph river.

IPM manufactures a popular brand of turntables for B.I.C., which stands for British Industries Corp.

Planners arguing in favor of the water recreational district have said the Silver Beach area is so unique with its beach and river frontage that it should be reserved for some type of major recreational development such as a restaurant and hotel complex.

Spokesmen for the industrial firms said they feel the city is trying to force them out.

Representatives of all four firms said that not being allowed to expand or renovate would severely limit their ability to continue doing business in their present locations.

They said they plan to attend the next meeting of the St. Joseph city planning commission with their attorneys to protest the proposed rezoning. That meeting is scheduled for 4:30 p.m. Thursday at city hall.

The city commission sent the new ordinance back to the planners for further study after about 75 people attended a commission meeting Aug. 1 to protest it.

Many of the protestors were residents of a six-block area of Silver Beach north of Park street that would also be included in the proposed water recreation district. The residential area is presently zoned for two-family use and homes there would become nonconforming if the new ordinance is adopted.

The planning commission is expected to consider proposed changes to the ordinance and then send it back to the city commission for consideration at the Sept. 12 city commission meeting. The planning commission originally voted to recommend the ordinance in March.

"This harassment is getting us down," said B.G. Lindenfeld of Stevensville, owner of a warehouse on a 1½-acre lot he leases to IPM.

The new zoning ordinance will lower property values in the water recreation district and cost everyone a lot of money, he said.

"They're trying to force us out," he continued. "They could condemn every property down there and pick them up at a reasonable price, but they don't want to do that. They want it for nothing."

He said that if IPM moved out, the loss of the lease would greatly reduce his retirement income.

John England, general manager of IPM, said he had been authorized to make this statement: "We are very disturbed by the proposed zoning. If passed, it will have a major effect on our future business planning. Competition is very tough in our business, and if we can't expand or modify our plant, we'll be at a disadvantage. We may want to add to this comment later on."

He said that in the last three years, the B.I.C. turntable had been selling very well in the U.S.

Timothy Horan, president of Horan Red-Mix, said his firm needs its present location on the St. Joseph river because of the dockage. It receives its aggregate supplies by boat.

"That's really our lifeline," Horan said. His Smith Haven and Watervliet plants are both supplied with material that comes into St. Joseph by boat.

He said he had no expansion plans at present, but he added, "You always keep in mind that these plants wear out and you'd like to replace them with something a little larger."

Memorial Plans Farewell For Retiring Nurse

BY MIKE WYNGARDEN
Staff Writer

Mrs. Virginia Burg, R.N., an obstetrics nurse at Memorial hospital, St. Joseph, is retiring to end a nursing career of 41 years. Mrs. Burg, who moved from the old St. Joseph sanitarium to Memorial when it opened in 1951, will retire Sept. 1.

Memorial is hosting a farewell tea for Mrs. Burg at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Memorial Forum. The entire staff and administration is invited to the retirement party, according to R.A. Bradburn, hospital administrator. After graduating from General hospital in End, Okla., in 1935, Mrs. Burg spent several years in private nursing and then worked for six years in hospitals in Oklahoma and Kansas. She came to the St. Joseph sanitarium in 1941.

During her 26 years at Memorial, Mrs. Burg, 63, has worked in surgery, central supply and obstetrics. She has been a staff nurse in the maternity ward since 1969. Mrs. Burg and her husband, Charles A., live at 1574 Norton avenue, Benton township. They have one daughter, Mrs. Paul (Judith Ann) Redman, who lives in Germany.

FAIRPLAIN

Junior High Has Welcome Mat Out

Fairplain junior high of the Benton Harbor district has invited parents and their sons and daughters to a "get to know us" session next Wednesday.

Principal William Vescolani said the orientation will be from 7 to 9 p.m. Parents will accompany students to homerooms, then follow an abbreviated day's schedule of visiting classrooms and meeting teachers.

He said the session has a two-fold purpose: give parents an idea of what their children will do during the school year and acquaint new students with the school.

Riverside's Registration Set Sept. 6

Students in Hagar township's Riverside school district will register for classes from 9 a.m. to noon, Sept. 6, according to Marla Haynes, school principal. Classes will begin in the K-8 district Sept. 7.

Registration Monday For Faith Lutheran

COLOMA — Registration for students planning to attend Faith Lutheran school here will be Monday, beginning at 9:30 a.m., according to school officials. Registration will be at the school. The first day of classes is Tuesday. The school offers classes for kindergarten through the seventh grades.

A Pile Of Lumber Is A Furniture Showroom

Woodworker Builds His Own

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. — A pile of lumber is a furniture showroom for a man like Billy Whitaker, who can look at a piece of wood and envision a chair, table, desk or bed.

"Woodworking is more than a hobby — it's an art," says Whitaker, a construction coordinator for a tobacco company here, who built almost all the furniture in his home. Over the years, he has built about 200 large pieces of furniture and countless small items.

As a small boy Whitaker began experimenting in a woodworking shop in his home, and later refined his skills in industrial arts classes.

"But learning to make furniture is something you have to pick up yourself," Whitaker explains, "by studying individual pieces of furniture. When I look at a piece of furniture, I try to figure out how each part is made, how it was all put together, and how it was finished."

"You can take pride in what you make because of its originality," he continues. "Even if I am copying a basic furniture style, I use my own methods of construction and add my own details of style. There's not another piece of furniture anywhere in the world that's exactly like any of mine."

Whitaker will admit that not everyone has the time, patience or inclination to make their own furniture. But he does suggest that anyone buying furniture look for the same signs of quality that he incorporates into handmade pieces.

"Prospective furniture buyers should check for good wood and good joints," says Whitaker. "Fine quality furniture is solid wood, and is usually quite heavy. Look underneath the piece and in the drawers to see if the same wood is used there that appears on the top surfaces. Furniture that's not very solid is often constructed with plastic or plywood parts in areas that don't show."

"The joints in a fine piece of furniture should all fit tightly. If you find wood putty in joints, such as in the corners of drawers, that's a sign that the joints didn't fit properly. Wood putty is usually used to cover mistakes," Whitaker explains.

Making or purchasing fine furniture is a sound investment, Whitaker notes. "A WELL-CONSTRUCTED PIECE OF FURNITURE THAT'S CAREFULLY MADE FOR PROPERLY WILL LAST INDEFINITELY. The best polish to keep furniture looking nice for years is lemon oil, which can be purchased in any paint store. Lemon oil needs to be applied only twice a year."

Handmade furniture is more valuable than production line furniture, Whitaker says, because of the time and labor involved. "For instance, I may spend 80 hours working on a grandfather's clock cabinet," he notes. His floor clocks usually sell for around $900, but some bring as much as $2,000.

Whitaker has sold the majority of the furniture he's made, a fact he sometimes regrets.

"I have plans to make much more furniture for my own home," says Whitaker. "And my daughters have plenty of ideas about the furniture they plan for me to make for their homes someday," he adds with a smile.

Although Whitaker devotes a great deal of time and effort to woodworking, he explains that his craft is "pure relaxation." He concludes, "I'm not making these things because I love to, but because I want to." He probably won't tire of the hobby; he's been working with wood since he was ten and plans to continue "forever."

MAKES CLOCK: One way to accumulate fine furniture is to build it yourself, which Billy Whitaker does in his woodworking shop at home. He devotes most of his spare time to his woodworking hobby. Building a grandfather clock like the one shown here requires about 80 hours.

Genealogy Workshop Set

ANN ARBOR — "Migrations To and From Michigan: A Genealogical Seminar," an event for genealogy enthusiasts, will be held Friday through Sunday, Sept. 9-11, in Ypsilanti.

The seminar, sponsored by the Michigan Genealogical Council, with cooperation of University of Michigan extension service and school of library science, will provide opportunities for those searching out their roots to share information and develop skills in genealogical research.

Sessions will be held at the Hoyt Conference Center of Eastern Michigan university in Ypsilanti.

Two major discussion sessions and a number of workshops will be presented by genealogical society members. Marion Keefe of Toronto, Canada, will discuss "Tracking and Backtracking Ancestors Who Came Through and From Canada," and Frank D. Gattion, librarian and archivist with the North Carolina department of cultural resources, will present, "Tracking Ancestors Between Michigan and Virginia, the Carolinas and Georgia."

Workshop topics will include how to reproduce old photographs, publication techniques, use of tape recorders, letters of inquiry, dating and preserving materials and the use of record films.

Discussions will be held Saturday and Sunday mornings with workshops each afternoon.

Friday afternoon activities will include a tour of University of Michigan libraries and a get-acquainted session at which participants can share information and get help on research projects.

Registration and program information is available from University of Michigan extension service, conferences and institutes, 412 Maynard street, Ann Arbor, Mich., 48106.

Associate Chairman Of Bible Week

NEW YORK — Frank M. Sims, Assistant Treasurer of Clark Equipment Company and President and Director of Clark Equipment Credit Corporation, has been named associate chairman for the 37th annual interfaith National Bible Week.

Announcement of Sims as associate chairman was made by Donald V. Seibert, chairman of J.C. Penney Company, who is serving as national chairman of the observance to be held Nov. 20-27.

Sims, an Episcopalian is a native of Chicago. He was educated at Williams college and the University of Chicago Graduate School of Business.

Prior to joining Clark in 1970, he had been a vice president of the Harris Trust and Savings Bank in Chicago.

He is on the board of directors of Northern States Bancorporation, Detroit, and Inter-City Bank, Benton Harbor. He is also a member of the board of trustees of the Stanley Clark School, South Bend, Ind.

Sims resides in Niles, where he and his wife and three children are members of Trinity Episcopal church.

Donald V. Seibert, who made the announcement, is chairman and chief executive officer of J.C. Penney Company, Inc.

Honorary co-chairmen are Hon. Arthur J. Goldberg, Rev. Dr. Billy Graham, Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, Archbishop Iakovos, Tom Landry, Art Linkletter, George Meany, Mrs. Norman Vincent Peale, Mrs. Harry Wagner, Archbishop John F. Whealon and Rev. Dr. M.L. Wilson.

The Laymen's National Bible Committee has sponsored the interfaith observance since 1941 when its inaugural radio program was interrupted with the news that Pearl Harbor had been bombed. Largely a mass media effort from its inception, the campaign features print and broadcast advertising; newspaper cartoons, features and editorials; and special projects and displays by clubs and organizations, churches and synagogues, libraries and bookstores, labor unions, business firms, and the Armed Forces.

Cooperating religious groups are the United States Catholic Conference, Greek Orthodox Archdiocese, Jewish Commit-

Produced by Ken Anderson Films, the film looks in depth at the entire flood story.

The film differs considerably from the theatre release on the subject and in the words of one viewer, "This film takes over where that film concludes."

For the 7 p.m. service, the Rev. Schreier will show slides on the work of the Christie Lake Bible camp.

He is a 1970 graduate of the Grand Rapids School of the Bible and Music and is a former pastor of the Hessville Bible church, Hammond, Ind.

SOUTH HAVEN — SPIRITUAL CHURCH OF CHRIST, South Haven, will hold its fellowship anniversary Sunday, Aug. 28, at 3:30 p.m.

Participating will be members of Mt. Calvary Missionary Baptist church and Second Baptist church.

NEED RUSSIAN APPROVAL

NEW YORK (AP) — On return from a trip to Israel, the leader of the conservative wing of rabbis in this country said that "no peace is possible in the Middle East without the approval of Russia."

Rabbi Stanley Rabinowitz, president of the Rabbinical Assembly representing 1,000 conservative rabbis, said "Russia may not be able to make peace in the Middle East, but it is able to disrupt peace ... Only those who know how to talk to Russia will bring peace."

SYSTEMS OF TORTURE

WASHINGTON (AP) — A booklet issued by the office of international justice and peace of the U.S. Catholic Conference cites documented evidence of institutionalized systems of torture used in 64 countries.

"Our tax money buys military aid for some of these 'Torture States' and supports trade programs with others," the booklet says.

To Honor Rev. Woodson

The congregation of Pleasant Grove Baptist church, Benton Harbor, will honor the Rev. C.L. Woodson for his 14 years of service as pastor of the church with programs this weekend.

A pre-celebration musical will be held at 7 o'clock tonight at the church. Participating will be the Sensational Six, Union Gospel Singers, Melody Aires, Star Singers, Gospel Propheters, Spiritual Angels, Undisputed Truth and Northern Har-monizers.

A program will also be held at 3 p.m., Sunday, Aug. 28, with the Rev. Elbert Brown and members of St. Paul Baptist church and the Rev. Walter Brown and members of Ebenezer Baptist church as guests.

* Guests for the 8 p.m. program will be the Rev. Henry Bland and members of New Jerusalem Baptist church, Bangor, and the Rev. Robert DeFrance and members of Tabernacle Baptist church, Covert.

The Rev. Woodson founded Pleasant Grove Baptist church in 1963 when services were held in a garage at 420 Miller street, Benton Harbor. The Rev. Woodson says he founded the church without any members.

The congregation moved into another facility on Edgemoor in 1966 and in October of 1973, the congregation moved to its present location at 710 East Main street, Benton Harbor.

The Rev. Woodson came to Benton Harbor in 1937 from Oscoda, Ark. Prior to founding the church, he served as a deacon, church clerk and superintendent of the Sunday school at Pilgrim Rest Baptist church, Benton Harbor.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODIE ISHMAEL

THE NEW TESTAMENT No. 14 The Tempest

When Jesus saw the great multitudes gathered around him, he prepared to travel by ship to the country of the Gergesenes. And when he boarded a ship, his disciples followed him.

"And behold, there arose a great tempest in the sea, inasmuch that the ship was covered with the waves; but he was asleep. And his disciples came to him, and awoke him, saying, Lord, save us: we perish." (Matthew 8:24-25)

"And he saith unto them, Why are ye fearful, O ye of little faith? Then he arose, and rebuked the winds and the sea; and there was a great calm. But the men marvelled, saying, What manner of man is this, that even the winds and the sea obey him!" (Matthew 8:26-27)

To Show Film Sunday

The film, "A Thief In The Night," will be shown by two Benton Harbor churches Sunday, Aug. 28.

Both showings will be at 6 p.m.

Community Bible Baptist Fellowship will show the film at the Benton Harbor public library auditorium.

The film will also be shown at Fairplain Assembly of God.

The film is about Bible prophecy and shows what can happen when Christ returns. Filmed on location in Iowa, the film portrays the Biblical prediction, "There will be no place to hide."

The film was given the "Best Film of the Year" award by the National Evangelical Film Foundation of Valley Forge, Pa.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Children Start Young

Dear Ann: What do I do when I see a sexually precocious boy of six embrace and rub himself up against a five-year-old girl, trying to satisfy his sexual curiosity? He was doing it in the yard where he thought no one could see him. Should I mind my own business or tell the girl's parents?

I have a 3 1/2-year-old daughter and I would want to be told of this kind of behavior before it went any further. Please answer. — Mother In A Dilemma

Dear Mother: Such behavior is not abnormal — however, you should alert the little girl's mother, also the boy's. Young children of the opposite sex ought not to be left to play unsupervised for long periods of time. They should also be told not to touch each other's private parts, NOT because it's bad, but because bodies are personal property and not playthings.

Most children manage to "play doctor" and experiment (this is normal curiosity), but they should be checked in periodically to make sure they don't become unduly preoccupied with such goings-on.

Hates Cigars

Dear Ann: Over the years I've put up with some rather inconsiderate people, but someone just left my home who made me furious. It was a cigar smoker, one of those terrible stinky ones. Now my house smells like cigars. I have an allergy headache that will last for hours. I would have kicked him out the door but he is my husband's business associate so I couldn't say a word.

How can we get it through the thick skulls of cigar smokers that they are infringing on other people's rights? Are they too gross to care, or don't they know what they are doing?

We read and hear a lot about the evils of cigarette smoking, but how can we get through to the cigar freaks? Cigars are not labeled "hazardous to your health," but they really can foul up a place and are a definite infringement on the rights of others. Please print this and comment. — Where's A Chlothespin?

Dear Pin: More and more we are seeing signs that say "No Smoking." This means cigars and pipes as well as cigarettes. I share your disgust in regard to cigars, but I'm not allergic to them. Since you ARE your husband's business associate so I can't say a word.

Easy Transformation

COORDINATED BEDROOM

Decorating a bedroom today is a far cry from the time when you had to coordinate paint, wallpaper, curtains, carpeting and a bedspread, all from different stores, to "do" the room right.

Now thanks to some foresight and imagination on the part of the companies who make sheets and bedcoverings, you can transform your bedroom quickly and easily with staple gun and glue.

The bedroom pictured here was created entirely from sheets made with easy care polyester and cotton. The style, "Classic Lines," designed by Bill Bass, is available in the domestic departments of most major stores.

This room, prior to its recent transformation, was rather plain with little charm and only one window at the end. To add warmth and make the most of the limited floor space visually, New York interior designer, Vincent Wolf, carpeted the bedroom wall-to-wall. Wolf then decided to float the kingsize platform bed in the middle of the floor both for interest and to permit traffic flow around the entire room. A desk placed at the head of the bed serves as work space, headboard to prop pillows against, and bedside table to hold lamp, telephone and books.

The walls are covered with sheets in the "Classic Lines" pattern. The fabric can be either stapled or glued to the walls. If you choose to use a staple gun, a trim such as a flat braid should be glued over the staples at the ceiling and floor. Braid is a nice finishing touch in either case.

To frame the window and hide some difficult joints in the wall, screens were chosen the height of the room. These can be made from plywood, cut at your local lumber yard and binged. Fabric was then stapled on the front of the screens only. Should you wish more flexibility, fabric can be added to the back as well.

The "Classic Lines" comforter, covered in a fabric of polyester and cotton, and luxuriously plumped with fiberfill, is machine washable, a necessity since you are going to want to spend many hours comfortably ensconced with a good book on this chaise-cum-bed.

The final touch is lots of enormous pillows to sink into with the latest bestseller.

Transform your bedroom in a weekend? This is it — a room that is elegant, luxurious and easy to "do."

Ways To Relieve Stress Of Job

NEW YORK (AP) — A walk around the block; time out for meditating or reading; lunch hour exercise at a health spa.

These are some of the ways business professionals find relief from job stress reports a registered nurse in the occupational health field.

Interviews conducted by Dawn D. Kinsler, health administrator of Texas Commerce Bank, Houston, revealed individual workers' personal habits played a major role in creating stress, she says.

Among them: poor dietary habits, elimination of daily breaks from work routine and skipping breakfast or lunch.

Kinsler, writing in "Occupational Health Nursing," official publication of the American Association of Occupational Health Nurses, suggests a number of ways to reduce excessive work stress.

These include understanding organization objectives, having ready access to superiors, starting a task with adequate facilities and supplies, maintenance of maximum organization and efficiency, a positive attitude toward success of an endeavor, being assertive rather than aggressive and not relying on others for positive self-affirmation.

Relaxation at home, according to Kinsler, can carry over into the work setting for a general sense of well-being. Weekends with proper rest and good nourishment, leisure time spent with entertainment, sporting events, exercise programs and generally "doing your own thing" were advocated.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Will taking a lot of colonic irrigations cause permanent damage to the colon?

I have had colon trouble most of my adult life and a number of years ago a non-M.D. gave me a series of colonic irrigations for cleansing purposes which seemed to help while I was taking them. After I discontinued them I have had much more trouble than before.

I am troubled with constipation and I have a lot of gas that sometimes gets trapped in my lower right side and I can't seem to pass it. I do pass quite a bit of mucus. I would appreciate any advice you might give and any Health Letter you think I should have.

DEAR READER — I don't think much of colonic irrigations. All they or enemas really do is to mechanically remove food residue prematurely. Whenever the colon is emptied prematurely it simply waits until it is filled again before the normal sequence of events takes place.

That is exactly how people get hooked on chemical laxatives. They empty the bowel and then are upset because there is no movement the next day. It is about as logical as to empty the ashes from a wood burning stove completely and then expect to have more ashes the next day even if you didn't burn much wood.

The constant irritation of the bowel with enemas and chemical laxatives stimulates strong colon contractions that cause spasms and result in poor bowel function. Getting people off such regimes and on to a sensible living pattern is not always easy.

Per your request I am sending you The Health Letter number 2-1, Irritable or Spastic Colon and Constipation and number 6-8, Controlling Gasousness. Others who want either issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for either one. The first issue will give you a program you can follow to gradually eliminate your constipation problem. It won't be as easy as long as you have had it, so be patient.

Colonic irrigations and enemas are not likely to do any real damage. Just re-enforce the early emptying and constipation cycle. I think everyone with such problems should have a good medical examination to be sure there is no serious disease present and then should try to get off enemas, irrigations and laxatives.

The enema idea all began with a misconception. An observer saw a bird dipping off from his oil gland at the base of his tail and then oiling himself. He mistakenly thought the bird was giving himself an enema. For centuries since then mankind has been using such procedures to speed up elimination. The whole process is not physiological or normal at all. A person hooked on a laxative habit may need some help once in a while when first training the bowel but that should cease as the training progresses.

You should try your best to include more bulk in your diet, particularly whole cereals such as bran and then work on your habit pattern as outlined in The Health Letter.

Because of the volume of mail Dr. Lamb cannot answer your letters personally but he will answer representative letters of general interest in his column. Write to him in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

correct trump play and made six.

West opened a club. East's nine forced South's jack. Now South started his play by leading the jack of diamonds and rising with dummy's king after West played low.

Then he led dummy's jack of spades. East covered with the king and South played his ace. Then he led his low diamond and West fell into the trap. He shouldn't have ducked but he did. Dummy's 10 won the trick, a proven finesse for the 10 enabled South to pluck East's last trumps, dummy's last diamond went to the ace of clubs and a heart lead to the king left South with just one heart.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

North's two-club bid was Slayman and when South bid two spades to show four cards in that suit, North took his partner right to game. There were enough other ways to get there so that every North-South pair in the duplicate game played at four spades and made it.

Those players who know the proper play with 10 trumps, missing king-10-small, led dummy's jack of spades, picked up East's king and finessed for the 10 later on to make an overtrick. Top score went to this South who added a neat deceptive play to the LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Should there be something that you're bound to do today by honor or duty, don't neglect it. It could crop up later and cause a real brouhaha.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You'd be smart to let others share the stage with you socially today. Allow all the characters to have at least a few lines.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Outsiders and in-laws are callous today where your family affairs are involved. They might well try to tell you how to run the show.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Someone with a forceful personality might attempt to downgrade your ideas today. Don't be intimidated just because this guy has a big mouth.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Don't be outmaneuvered today when it's time to pay the check. Have another cup of coffee and wait until the waiter picks up his share.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Your mate may think he has all the answers today and must make all the big decisions. Let him know you, too, are entitled to a voice.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Don't put any extra strains on your health today. Observe sensible eating and drinking habits and avoid overindulgence.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Complications with friends could develop today if one or both is too insistent on having his or her own way. If a pal is rigid, you should be flexible.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You can be led today, but not pushed. Unfortunately, someone is prodding you to do something that'll benefit them more than you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be careful that a friendly discussion on philosophy or politics doesn't turn into a fracas with both parties getting hot under the collar.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Joint ventures could pose a problem for you today if you feel the other party is not contributing equally, financially or intellectually.

Your Birthday
Monday, Aug. 29, 1977

An acquaintance who is either older or more experienced than you can be instrumental in furthering your material gains this coming year. Listen to this person. He has your welfare at heart.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Take care today not to strike a discordant note in the harmony between you and your mate by being a nitpicker. Try to be complimentary instead of critical. Like to find out more of what lies ahead for you send for your copy of Astro-Graph letter by mailing 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Lock in on your work today. When you let your mind wander even a little, there's a strong possibility of mistakes or even a serious blunder.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Too much of your time may be devoted today to projects that are trivial or even passe. Don't let the sands of time run out fruitlessly.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) It's admirable to speak in glowing terms of your pride in your family. Just don't attribute to them unattempted accomplishments.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Before signing any important documents or agreeing to anything binding, recall: you'll have to account for it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Being careless with little things can precipitate big problems today. Check to make sure you have your keys when you lock your car, for example.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Don't behave the way you feel others want you to today. Be your own person. You'll find solace in peace of mind.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You're likely to spend more time concocting excuses about why you can't do something than it would take to do it. Combine mental and muscle power.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Companions may be derogatory about one who is absent. Don't join the verbal lynching. The victim's likely to hear who held the rope.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) An unfriendly observer is waiting for you to make a mistake in your work or career today. Don't give them any occasion for gratification.

Detergent Makers Move To Block Phosphate Ban

By SUSAN AGER
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Phosphates are banned from laundry detergents sold in Michigan starting Oct. 1 unless manufacturers win a court battle.

Minutes after the Michigan Natural Resources Commission gave unanimous approval to the ban Friday, the national Soap and Detergent Association filed suit in Wayne County Circuit Court.

The suit maintains that only the legislature, not state agencies, can reduce phosphate levels. A spokesman said the group will seek an injunction next week to hold up the ban.

The ban would cut the amount of phosphates allowed in detergents sold in Michigan from 8.7 per cent to 5 per cent, the most that can be removed practically.

State water quality officials say that would be a boon to the Great Lakes and inland waters that grow weed-choked and stagnant if too much phosphate is present. They estimate about 40 per cent of Michigan's 11,000 inland lakes show signs of eutrophication due to phosphate pollution.

For months detergent industry attorneys have threatened to challenge the ban in court, and they repeated their intentions Friday before the commission vote.

"We would have preferred to see this matter resolved by the legislature, but the commission moved on his matter without waiting for the people's representatives to finish their deliberations," said a spokesman for the association.

It represents 126 manufacturers who together produce more than 90 per cent of the nation's laundry detergent. Joining the association as plaintiffs in the suit were the Amway Corp., a detergent manufacturer in Ada, Mich., and the Monsanto Corp., a major producer of phosphate with a plant in Trenton, Mich.

"Consumer laundering costs will be increased with no benefit whatsoever in terms of the environment," said Noel Black, director of public affairs for Amway.

Phosphate bans are in effect in New York, Indiana, Chicago, Duane County, Fla., and Akron, Ohio. A ban approved by the Vermont legislature takes effect next spring.

But the detergent industry won an injunction in Minnesota that has delayed a ban that was to take effect there last January.

A phosphate ban was proposed last year in the Michigan legislature but lawmakers, under strong pressure from the industry and local manufacturers, took no action on it.

Nixon Denies Keeping Gifts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard Nixon was reported as being angry and deeply hurt by inferences that he and Mrs. Nixon intentionally might have wanted to keep some of the gifts they received from foreign dignitaries while Nixon was president.

An aide to the former president said in a telephone interview from San Clemente on Friday that Nixon and his family "never claimed, believed or hoped" to keep some of the $2 million in gifts they received.

"If it turns out that any state gifts were inadvertently sent to San Clemente, then we'll return the damn things as soon as we can," said aide Ken Khachigian.

Feminists Launch ERA Drive

By JURATE KAZICKAS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Backers of the proposed Equal Rights Amendment, on the heels of a massive march past the White House, are hoping to raise $50,000 in walkathons today in 38 states.

The money will help finance efforts to have the proposed amendment ratified in three of the 15 states whose legislatures are yet to vote on it.

The ERA must be approved by three more states by early 1979 to become law.

The National Organization for Women planned today's activities in more than 100 cities and towns, ranging from New York and Los Angeles to Reno, Nev., and Morgantown, W. Va.

A NOW spokeswoman said groups supporting the ERA are pledging various donations for each mile participants walk.

The spokeswoman would not say specifically how the money will be used in the campaign for the amendment. "We see this as a war and generals don't give out their strategy secrets," she said.

Friday, the 57th anniversary of women's suffrage, more than 3,500 women — and some men — paraded down Pennsylvania Avenue, led by some of those who took part in the marches of 1913 and 1917, when women wanted the right to vote were jeered by hostile crowds.

President Carter invited more than 200 representatives of women's groups into the Rose Garden for a ceremony declaring Friday Women's Equality Day.

Carter urged "all our people to dedicate themselves anew to the goal of achieving equal rights for women under the law."

He instructed government agencies to root out discrimination and added, "Equal rights for women are an inseparable part of human rights for all." Women carried banners proclaiming their various groups which have endorsed the ERA. They included the American Baptist Convention, the Association of Flight Attendants, Common Cause, Federally Employed Women, the Young Women's Christian Association, United Auto Workers and more than 70 others.

At a 90-minute rally following the march, the speakers honored the late Alice Paul, the author of the ERA, who died in July at the age of 92.

One of the marches from the 1913 parade, Hazel Hunkins Hallman, barely fatigued after 45 minutes at the head of the parade, said the march had been "a great inspiration" and called the ERA an "essential step."

Detroiters Attend Equality Day Rally

DETROIT (AP) — The committed, the opposed, the indifferent and the curious — like their counterparts in other cities, hundreds of Detroiters turned out for a downtown rally celebrating Women's Equality Day.

The festivities which began Friday wrap up today with a walk-athon on Belle Isle to raise money for ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) to the U.S. Constitution.

The ERA was the focus of most of the speeches Friday as well-known Michigan women took the podium at a day-long rally in a downtown square.

"It's basically an economic issue," Detroit Councilwoman Maryann Mahaffey told the crowd. "Forty-seven per cent of America's women work, and they work because of economic necessity." That, she said, is one reason women need the protection she feels the ERA would provide.

Feminists were not the only ones represented at the Kern Block rally. Onlookers could browse through booths set up by groups ranging from natural

Fire Hits U.S. Moscow Embassy

By SETH MY DANS
Associated Press Writer
MOSCOW (AP) — "We gave it our all, but there wasn't anything we could do," said one of the U.S. Marines who fought side-by-side with Soviet firemen to douse a blaze that raged through the top three floors of the U.S. Embassy here.

U.S. sources said an electrical fault appeared to have set off the fire Friday night. It was brought under control early today after causing considerable interior damage, and apparently collapsing part of the roof.

No serious injuries were reported, but one Marine was treated for smoke inhalation.

The fire posed a potential security risk to the embassy's secret files and equipment. The damaged area is normally off limits to Russians.

Witnesses said embassy officials held off Soviet firemen until U.S. Ambassador Malcolm Toon arrived in formal dress from a dinner party and personally ordered the building opened to Soviet firemen.

Marine guards and other embassy personnel battled the stubborn blaze before firemen were let in.

Toon said he did not believe the embassy's security had been breached, but he said: "We're taking all the appropriate steps that are required."

Sources said Soviet firefighters were not permitted on the building's 10th floor, which houses the defense attaché's offices. One embassy official was heard to tell others: "Let it burn."

About 200 Soviet firefighters joined 25 Marines and other security officers — all wearing oxygen masks — in fighting the blaze.

Families living in 40 embassy apartments were evacuated safely as were some 100 young people who had been dancing in the embassy's second-floor club. Many other employees, including Ambassador Toon, live elsewhere.

"The marines rushed in and they said, 'There's a fire,' and they really meant it and they started pushing us out," said one girl.

The mustard-colored wood, plaster and brick building, built in the 1950s, is on Moscow's busy Tchaikovsky Street about four blocks from the Kremlin. Toon said the eighth and ninth floors of the embassy were "pretty well gutted." He predicted limited operations would resume today.

Sources said the worst damage was done in the economic and commercial section, and the public affairs and science departments.

A team of experts was to be flown in from Washington to assess damage and plan repairs, embassy officials said. Soviet policemen ordered reporters and diplomats away from the front of the embassy today. A plume of yellow smoke continued to rise from the building at dawn.

Marines and other security officials discovered the flames on the eighth floor at about 10:30 p.m. — 3:30 EDT — and tried to extinguish the fire themselves. Firemen were called in 30 minutes later.

Cars Costing More To Own

DETROIT (AP) — The cost of owning and operating a family-sized car rose another 3.7 per cent in the last three months, reports the American Automobile Association.

It now costs an average of 20.94 cents a mile to run a typical, six-passenger, midsize car, says a AAA survey. Costs averaged 20.2 cents in the group's survey in May. In 1972, shortly before the oil embargo, costs were estimated at 15.5 cents a mile. The real cause of the latest increase — though gas prices continue to climb — is auto insurance rates, according to AAA.

According to the survey, the fixed costs of owning a car — insurance, depreciation, registration and taxes — jumped 4.1 per cent since May, while operating costs — gas, oil, maintenance and tires — increased only 2.9 per cent.

Another Additive Worries EPA

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the second time this week, the federal government is investigating a widely used chemical additive that may cause sterility in men.

The newest target of an Environmental Protection Agency investigation is EDB — ethylene dibromide — found in wheat, fruits and gasoline.

The director of the EPA, Douglas M. Costle, said Friday that the agency's concern over the additive rivals its worry about DBCP — dibromochloropropane — used in cotton, soybeans and citrus fruits.

The Environmental Defense Fund, a private non-profit group, asked the government earlier Friday to ban EDB, saying the chemical has severely affected the health of laboratory mice, bulls and chickens.

The organization cited studies by the National Cancer Institute and the National Institute of Occupational Safety and Health that show the chemical produced stomach cancer in 70 per cent of the rats and 87 per cent of the mice tested.

"We're moving as rapidly as possible ... to obtain hard facts on the exposure of farmers; farm workers and homeowners; the extent of food crop residues from these compounds; the availability of substitutes; and the economic impact of additional restrictions Costle said.

Both chemicals are used in agriculture to control worm-like nematodes that attack crops, with EDB often substituted for DBCP.

About 90 per cent of the EDB produced is used in gasoline and EPA studies have reported large traces of it near highways and gas stations. An estimated 8,800 exterminators and fumigators come in contact with the chemical daily in addition to chemical workers and gas station attendants.

An agency spokesman said that EDB, when used in gasoline, reduces lead, a government goal for several years.

Its four largest manufacturers are Dow, Great Lakes, Kerr-McGee and Michigan chemical companies.

DBCP, applied like EDB to home lawns and shrubbery, has been recalled by two manufacturers. Another firm, which distributes the chemical, has halted production voluntarily.

Two of the companies reported this week that tests showed a link between DBCP and low sperm counts among male employees working with the pesticide.

DBCP has been recalled by Dow and Shell Oil Co. Shell reported Friday that 16 of 21 employees tested after exposure to the pesticide in Mobile, Ala., and Denver have abnormally low sperm counts.

Thursday, Dow indicated that tests of employees at California and Arkansas plants show a similar link.

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration is considering an emergency standard for DBCP and the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union has asked for controls.

Pigeon River Drilling Due

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The first wells will be sunk next week in the semi-wilderness of the Pigeon River Country State Forest unless drilling is blocked by the Natural Resources Commission or courts. Shell Oil Co. said Thursday it plans to start drilling its first oil and gas well late in the week. The Western Michigan Environmental Action Council wants the state Natural Resources Commission to delay the drilling. If the commission refuses today, opponents of the drilling say they will seek a court injunction. State Natural Resources Director Howard Tanner on Wednesday approved 10 applications to drill in the semi-wilderness area in northern Lower Michigan. He approved nine different sites in the southern third of the forest, with two of the wells located on one site. Tanner said drilling can begin Saturday, but Shell said it must clear the two-to three-acre site. That will take until next week.

Catcalls Greet PBB Site Talk

MIO, Mich. (AP) — If public wrath directed at one of his aides is any indication, Gov. William Milliken could have trouble dealing with the PBB issue in any future political campaign.

Kenneth Frankland, Milliken's legal aide, and five state workers were greeted with catcalls when they told 175 irate Oscoda County residents why their county soon will be a graveyard for PBB-tainted cattle.

Not a single citizen at the public meeting Thursday night supported having a burial pit for animals tainted by the fire retardant chemical. The graveyard, six miles north of Mio, is designated under Michigan's new PBB cleanup law. Burials will begin when the pit opens Oct. 3.

Frankland and the five state employees spent 30 minutes detailing why the burial site was chosen.

Then, they spent two hours answering questions. Frequently, they were interrupted by catcalls or applause backing an opponent's views.

The burial area, covering a site 250 by 400 feet, can hold up to 5,000 animals. If more space is needed, new geological studies would be required. The law selecting the site for the burials expires in 1980.

State officials insisted the spot chosen in Oscoda County poses no human health threat and the area's water table and wildlife are safe.

County officials, who have opposed the selection for more than a year, said they have hired a lawyer to seek alternatives.

TODAY In History

Today is Saturday, Aug. 27, the 239th day of 1977. There are 126 days left in the year.

PUBLIC SERVICE EMPLOYMENT PROJECTS

The Berrien County CETA Program is again accepting applications for short-term Special Public Service Employment Projects, pursuant to revisions of the Title VI Federal Regulations. Funding will be available because of current Special Projects ending.

Eligible applicants include units of general purpose local government and agencies thereof, combinations of associations of such governmental units whose primary purpose is to provide public services, special purpose political subdivisions having the power to tax and spend funds, local educational agencies, institutions of higher education, community development corporations, non-profit groups and organizations serving Indians and other non-profit private organizations or institutions engaged in public service. A portion of the overall funding allocation to Berrien County will be used in projects to non-profit groups and organizations.

Projects may begin November 1, 1977 with other starting dates staggered thereafter. Project duration must be a minimum of three (3) months and must be completed by September 30, 1978. Projects must be clearly defined specific tasks, which have a product or accomplishment when completed, and which would not otherwise be accomplished with existing funds. If a project proposes to expand a current public service to any degree, the specific end project of the expansion of services must be defined and an explanation of how the need for the expanded level of service will no longer exist at the conclusion of the project.

Public service activity includes, but is not limited to, the following: beautification, conservation, crime prevention and control, education, child care, environmental quality, fire protection, health care, housing and neighborhood improvements, manpower service, parks, streets and other public safety, recreation, rural development, solid waste removal, transportation, veterans outreach, community surveys or canvassing, etc. It excludes building and highway construction work (except that which the applicant is authorized to do and would normally perform itself rather than contract out). The CETA Act forbids participants to be employed in the construction, operation or maintenance of such part of any facility as is used or will be used for sectarian instruction or as a place of religious worship.

Special Projects applications are currently available at the CETA Office, 145 West Main Street, Benton Harbor, Michigan 49022, 927-2476. The allocation of special project funds will be by project approval. The deadline for all project applications is 5:00 p.m. on Friday, September 16, 1977.

Air Bags Get Mixed Reception

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — The Transportation Department brought its air bag road show to the heart of the auto industry

Friday, where it got a mixed reception. The air bag-equipped cars can be seen at county fairs, shopping centers and other places around Michigan in the next few weeks, said Richard Cook of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration's Chicago office. At the public demonstration in the Hyatt Regency Dearborn parking lot, Secretary of State Richard Austin acted as a guinea pig to show how the air bag inflates into a soft pillow to shield a car driver in case of impact.

Austin later said he had not decided whether he is in favor of air bags, but added he believes publicly about the devices is discouraging people from wearing seat belts.

Motorists Information, Inc., a Detroit-based non-profit group that is funded by the four largest domestic automakers, on Thursday announced a $1.5 million media campaign to promote the use of seat belts in Michigan.

MII officials said even if air bags go into use and are effective by 1984, 47,000 lives would be lost before then that could be saved through the use of seat belts.

Garry Bahling, a General Motors Corp. auto safety employee, said spectators at the demonstration were being misled.

"If the government was subject to truth in advertising, this demonstration could not have taken place," he said. Bahling asserted that in an actual airbag deployment, the speed would be at least 50 times as great and the noise would be equivalent to a rifle shot, rather than the slow "hissing" when the bags filled from nitrogen tanks.

Chris Kennedy, Chrysler Corporation's manager of automotive safety relations, joined the criticism. Kennedy indicated the government's estimate the air bags would save 9,000 lives was too high and he called the demonstration "grossly misleading."

WHOOOSH: Secretary of State Richard Austin flinches during air bag demonstration Friday by the U.S. Department of Transportation outside suburban Detroit hotel. Beginning with the 1982 model year manufacturers will begin phasing in air bags or passive restraint systems under order from the Transportation department. (AP Wirephoto)

Beame: It's A 'Hatchet Job'

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor Abraham D. Beame says the Securities and Exchange Commission did a "hatchet job" on him with its report that charges he misled the public about the city's near-bankrupt finances. Beame, who faces six Democratic opponents in a mayoral primary Sept. 8, received the 1,000-page report from Washington Friday afternoon. At first he declined comment, but later came out of his City Hall office to read a statement and to say he would have a detailed response to the report at a news conference today.

"The Securities and Exchange Commission has produced a shameless, vicious, political document regarding the officials of this city which comes out 13 days before an election," Beame said.

"My sworn testimony before the SEC, which I have already made public, and thousands of pages of documentary evidence which the city has submitted, contradict the SEC's conclusions."

Women, Minorities Boosted

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. (AP) — The state's various licensing boards should try to increase the number of females and minority group members in the professions, a top state official says. William Ballenger, director of the Department of Licensing and Regulation, called for "professional affirmative action plans" to increase the role women and minorities. Addressing the Michigan Association of the Professions annual meeting here, Ballenger said the state has a duty to increase opportunities in the professional fields. He urged licensing boards to assess the special problems of females and minorities and to determine whether they are being met.

COOKOUT WINNERS: The Mike Blake family of 147 Harriet Street, Coloma, won this week's WHFB Cookout contest. From left are (standing) Chuck Campbell, WHFB; C. The Michigan Law Enforcement Information Network (LEIN) on Sept. 30 will hold at Lake Michigan college the first of a series of classes to be held throughout the state for advanced LEIN training, according to college officials.

The training program is designed primarily for experienced LEIN terminal operators," said Lt. Michael Devine, LMC Criminal Justice and Public Safety Programs coordinator.

The LEIN training seminar, which will begin at 10 a.m. and end at 3 p.m., will include changes and additions to the National Crime Information Center (NCIC) stolen article file, automatic notification by NCIC of locate messages, and changes that have occurred over the last year with the Law Enforcement Communications System that LEIN represents, according to Devine.

"The LEIN system provides rapid access to stolen automobile information, stolen guns, stolen property, as well as missing and wanted persons to the police officer on the road," Devine said. "As late as the 1990's law enforcement officers often were several days finding out that a car they had stopped had been stolen. By the time they did find out, the car was gone and the person who had stolen it was not apprehended.

"With the advancement of teletype and communications systems, the immediate access to information nationwide has been developed through NCIC and in Michigan by LEIN."

The training program will be held in Room D-116 on the LMC Napier Avenue campus. The training is provided without charge through the cooperation of LMC and the Michigan Law Enforcement Information Network. Agencies wishing to send communications and dispatch personnel, as well as experienced LEIN operators, should contact the LMC Criminal Justice and Public Safety office at 927-3571 to make advance registration, according to Lt. Devine.

Beat Inflation; Build Furniture Without Tools

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Starting furniture costs are driving do-it-yourselfers to the work bench. But some interesting furniture can be made without a workshop.

Two books on the subject, Clement Meadowre's "How to Make Furniture Without Tools," and Mario Dal Fabbro's "How to Build Modern Furniture," can fill the Order forms supplied in the books are intended to be taken to lumber dealers where plywood is cut to the pattern. The lumber is cut into small pieces, and you take home those parts, not the eight-foot piece of lumber that has always been a transportation problem for do-it-yourselfers. Most designs by Meadowre, a sculptor, are limited to rectangles for that reason.

Glue is put along the edges to be joined (it should spread to cover the entire edge when the parts are joined) and the pieces are held in place with masking tape, which should be stretched slightly when it is applied. Surplus glue is wiped off with a damp sponge. Glue sets overnight and the tape is removed so the piece can be sanded, finished and painted.

This book gives directions for pieces such as chairs, dining tables and record shelves. A high-back arm chair with slant back and slant seat is a design very much like the old-fashioned, comfortable, outdoor Adirondack chair that has more or less disappeared.

Dal Fabbro's excellent book, a new edition, should charm the proficient do-it-yourselfer. It has challenging illustrations that include the minute details of craftsmanship necessary for building 55 different pieces of furniture. It also shows how to join rails to legs, legs in upholstered furniture and so on.

There are directions for making and assembling cabinets, chairs, tables, upholstered seats, a five-drawer high chest, lounge chairs and even an upholstered sofa and service carts. Special features include detailed illustrations of seats — ruffia, rush, cane — and how to upholster seats and chairs.

Dal Fabbro, a long-time furniture designer for outstanding Italian and American manufacturers, has done many pieces that are recognizable as some of the best in good design. His styles range from timeless classic to up-to-the-minute modern.

In building your own furniture, it is essential to choose pieces that will fit into your present decorating scheme. A do-it-yourselfer may suddenly decide to build a piece that is a challenge and then be annoyed when his mate does not want to use it with certain other pieces of furniture.

Studying the furniture offerings is a necessary requirement — in selection. Simple contemporary styles will go with many traditional styles, but some thought and discussion must go into the idea before execution of the piece. You may be saving money in building it yourself, but lumber is not inexpensive, and you might as well make something that will flatter your present home and please other members of the family.

Building News

needs of aspiring home furniture builders. The projects in Meadowre's book require no more than wood, white glue — new water-based glues make it possible, he says — and the cutting services supplied by a lumber yard, so that even an unskilled workman can build them.

For example, his low table can be converted to a bed with a 5-inch thick foam rubber mattress. The top measures 39 inches by 75 inches, the center brace, 12 inches from each end, is 3 and 7/8 inches by 51 inches, and two leg panels measure 8 and 7/8 inches by 30 inches.

Californian Hoping To Cash In On 'Solar Dryer'

DAVIS, Calif. (AP) — In her search for a successor to the "pet rock" gimmick, Patricia Moore left no stone unturned. She's planning her hopes on the "solar dryer," a new name for the clothesline in this conservation-conscious town.

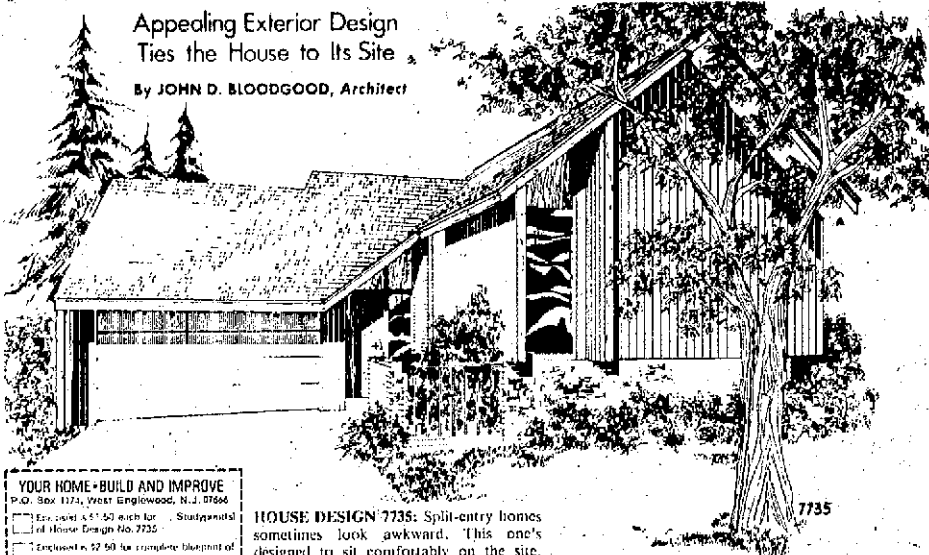

Mrs. Moore figures she's a step ahead of the town planners who are drawing up a new ordinance that encourages clotheslines instead of energy-sucking dryers.

In 1968, she and her partner, Merry Burns, began making dolls from old-fashioned wooden clothespins. They were left with a stack of 20,000 clothespins. Hence the "solar dryer" idea, in which they packaged 15 feet of cotton clothesline and 15 pins in each box bearing a smiling sun.

HOUSE DESIGN 7735: Split-entry homes sometimes look awkward. This one's designed to sit comfortably on the site. Entrance and garage are at grade level. Brick-faced foundation wall is extended out to form a courtyard effect.

Inside, the cook has a view down to the entry area via a cut-through.

Note L-shaped work center; cheery breakfast nook. Dining and living room open on a rear deck. There are three bedrooms, two baths. Lower level has rec room and expansion space to add more bedrooms. Area is 2693 square feet, including 562 for lower expansion space.

GREENHOUSE ADDITION: If you have a growing enthusiasm for plants, you might enjoy building this greenhouse. The plan creates a 3 1/2 x 5 1/2-foot bay that replaces double sash. You also might widen a single window to make an opening for the greenhouse.

Louvered Doors Are Functional, Attractive Decoration For Home

By HERBAEANDER
NEAWriter

Shutters r louvered doors all them what you will — are very much in. You can use them to dress up your house in a very decorative manner or in a very functional manner, even in a very functional but attractive manner.

Almost every lumber yard carries unfinished louvered doors in a variety of sizes that you can easily trim to fit a particular situation. Even some department stores are stocking them in the same department in which they carry draperies and Venetian blinds and window shades.

Shutters go back hundreds of years but they are as eye-catching and functional now as they ever were. With a few louvered panels picked up at the lumber yard you can make shutters for your house quite easily.

But shutters for your windows are only one use for louvered panels. You can use them as doors for wardrobes and closets, as window blinds, as folding screens and as room dividers.

Make your front door look larger by placing a narrow full-length panel on each side. Fit them up with the proper hardware so that they are working shutters on your windows instead of being merely decorative. Place them on the inside of a window — several narrow panels hinged so that you can fold them open part way or all the way — and use them instead of conventional blinds. Use short panels and have separate sets for top and bottom instead of one that is the full length of the window.

For a closet you can hang them on conventional hinges and turn them into ordinary doors. Or you can slide them on an overhead track and turn them with special hinges so that the suspended door also folds up.

These louvered panels are excellent doors because they provide ventilation while keeping out dust. Three or more can be put together to make a folding screen. Use double-acting hinges for best results. With these, each panel can fold in either direction, allowing you to set up a screen in the most suitable shape.

Screens should be made of panels about six feet high. Use at least three hinges between panels. Fasten with screws after pre-drilling the holes.

Use ordinary butt hinges for panels you are mounting on windows and doors. So that the panels will fold instead of opening straight out, fasten narrow panels together with butt hinges.

For your kitchen get a pair about 24 inches high and make some cafe-type short doors. Mount them on special hinges so that they can swing either way. Some louvered panels are made just for this purpose and have scroll-cut designs top and bottom. Or make your own.

Louvered panels have wide rails top and bottom. These can be trimmed for proper fit. Get louvered panels with a solid rail across the center if you plan to mount pulls or other hardware.

Spacer Speeds Nailing

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Professionals have their own pet ways of nailing 2 by 4 studs in place so that they don't shift. One of the most common is to brace one foot against one side of the stud while driving a nail into the other side, at the proper angle.

You might try something I learned years ago. Let's assume the studs will be placed 16 inches apart on center; that is, 16 inches from the center of one stud to the center of the next. Since the 2-inch side of the stud actually is 1 1/2 inches, that means the center of each stud will be at the 3 1/4ths of an inch mark. That leaves exactly 1 1/2 inches between each stud.

Therefore, cut a piece of wood 14 1/2 inches long. That now becomes your spacer between studs.

Not only does it keep studs the correct distance apart, it can be used as an aid to prevent a stud from moving while it is being nailed.

Once the first stud is in place, put the spacer next to it atop the sole plate. Rest the next stud against it and hammer in a nail on the opposite side. When the second stud is set, remove the spacer and do the same thing with all other studs.

Once in a while, the spacer will become lodged between two studs, but a couple of bangs with a hammer will free it.

European cornborer has been the culprit in your garden all summer. Now that the pressure is off corn-borers, the corn earworm has arrived in force from down south. It does not survive Michigan winters but does arrive late in the summer some years. It arrived from Dixie the week of Aug. 15. Seven sprays or dust should be directed to the ears of corn to prevent infestation. Corn earworm will also feed on tomato fruit.

CRAFT CRITTERS

Gathering nuts, seed pods, pine cones and other plant materials for craft projects can be fun, but they may be infested with insects. The best way to be sure these materials are not bug-laden is to bake them. Place the materials in a thin layer on a shallow pan and bake for an hour at the oven's lowest setting.

Spiders, ants, weevils and moth larvae may travel into the home on craft materials. Once in the home, they may become infested with Indian meal-moths, grain beetles or other pests of stored food. Store craft articles in a dry area in tightly closed containers with moth-balls. Check stored items occasionally to catch infestations while they're still manageable.

Solar Housing Isn't Only Way To Save Energy

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

The almost fanatical interest in solar energy housing may have shut the eyes of many homeowners to the dozens of energy-saving measures that can be taken immediately.

What is especially interesting about the steps that can be taken to save energy is that they will interlock with any partial or complete solar energy systems added to existing homes.

This should be comforting to those who visualize solar collectors on their roofs, but aren't sure when they will act on their wishes. Or they will have decided to await further technological advances in the field.

Most of us have been humiliated with information about the economic benefit of extra insulation in our houses. The savings are real, especially if someone in the family can do the installation work himself.

The list of energy-saving features that can be built into a new house is a lot longer than you might think. For instance, in a program developed by the National Association of Home Builders Research Foundation under contract to the U.S.

Department of Housing and Urban Development, the specifications for a demonstration house listed 56 energy-saving features. In addition to the usual increased insulation, weather-stripping, double and triple-glazed windows and doors, and many other measures about which most of us have some knowledge, the list included such things as 7-foot, 6-inch ceilings to reduce interior volume; surface-mounted electrical outlets with wiring at the floor to avoid penetrating the walls; a water heater set back to 120 degrees Fahrenheit; and heat circulator fireplace units with glass door enclosures to utilize outdoor combustion air.

A three-bedroom, 12,000-square-foot house built to these specifications is being tested in Mt. Airy, Md. Additional construction costs were about $3,000, but are expected to be cost-effective; that is, they will pay for themselves within a reasonable period of time.

It will take about a year to pinpoint the energy performance of the house compared to a similar conventional house. Meanwhile, all kinds of meters are keeping tabs on the energy usage.

Solar Heater Keeps Eight In Hot Water

By KEN HERMAN
Associated Press Writer

MIDLOTHIAN, Tex. (AP) — Bob Hammer turned to the heavens for help when he grew tired of taking cold showers after his wife and six kids used up all the hot water in their home.

At a cost of $1,500 Hammer had a solar water heating system installed in the home, between Fort Worth and Dallas. He says the investment was worth it.

The Hammers are saving about 30 per cent on their electric bill, which has run up to $150 per month in his five-year-old home.

Solar energy collecting panels were installed on the southern exposure of the roof. The energy is collected and used to heat a 66-gallon tank of water. The 3-by-6-foot squares are glass-topped and Hammer said they do not spoil the appearance of his home.

"I've had a lot of interest from neighbors but the expense involved is high. Banks will finance it 100 per cent," he said.

"But even on cloudy days you still collect energy with these flat plates on the roof. You can only heat 66 gallons at a time, though, and a washing machine set on hot uses 40 gallons of water. We have it timed so she does the wash in the afternoon and it heats up for the night," he said.

A Texas Power and Light spokesman said Hammer's figures seem accurate but it may take six children to make the conversion to solar energy worthwhile.

Urban Gibson, manager of technical services for TP&L, said an average home uses just over 2,000 kilowatt hours per month. Some 20 per cent of the total is used for water heating. In a large family, such as Hammer's, the water heating portion of the bill could go up to 35-40 per cent.

"Depending on your usage, these things (solar heaters) can pay off. You need to study your figures before you commit yourself," Gibson said.

OIC Official Back At Work

The acting executive director of Berrien Opportunities Industrialization Center (OIC) in Benton Harbor returned to duty Thursday after a reported

Man Says Gear Taken From Boat

NILES — A Niles man told police here this morning that fishing and boating gear valued at $1,000 was taken from his boat.

Keith Vosler, 1810 North Fifth street, told police he was preparing to go fishing when he discovered the theft shortly before 6 a.m.

Items reported taken include amarine radio, two tackle boxes and a gas tank. Police said the items were taken from Vosler's boat which was parked in the lot at the apartment house where he lives.

Digging Solves Burglary

KISSIMMEE, Fla. (AP) — Sheriff's deputies investigating a reported burglary at a Kissimmee motel solved the crime by persistent digging — while holding their noses. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Beard, vacationing from Detroit, returned to their room and discovered that three of her rings were gone. Mrs. Beard recalled she had last seen them wrapped in a tissue left on the nightstand. Noting that the room had been recently cleaned by a maid, the deputies went right to the garbage dump and began sifting for clues. After two hours of messy searching, they recovered the tissue with the rings tucked neatly inside.

Berrien Springs Teacher Pact Already Settled

BERRIEN SPRINGS — It was incorrectly reported in this newspaper Friday that Berrien Springs teachers are still negotiating on salary and fringe benefit re-opener clauses in their multi-year master contract.

The re-opener clauses have been settled and the 1977-78 contract was ratified by both sides earlier this month, according to Elmer Dykeman, Berrien Springs Education Association president.

Vans Crash On I-94; Ten Sent To 2 Hospitals

PAW PAW — State police here said two vans collided early today on I-94 east of Paw Paw, sending 10 of 12 people in the vans to hospitals in Paw Paw and Kalamazoo.

Two of the injured were admitted to Lake View hospital, Paw Paw. Two others, including a nine-week-old boy, were being treated at Borgess hospital, Kalamazoo. Six of the injured were released after treatment at Lake View and Bronson hospital, Kalamazoo. Two others did not require medical treatment.

According to troopers, the collision occurred about 5:20 a.m. when a van driven by James Hodge, 22, Craunford, N.J., smashed into the rear of another van parked on the month-long suspension from the job.

Martin Howard, 32, who took the post June 1, refused to comment on his reported suspension. OIC is a federally-funded manpower training program where unemployed persons are offered job training and vocational counseling.

Mrs. Catheryn Sirk, Benton township supervisor who is a member of the OIC board of directors, said Howard was suspended without pay in late July while the OIC executive committee studied some of Howard's "personal concerns and problems."

A copy of a letter sent to Howard over the signature of Ralph Crenshaw, chairman of the OIC board, indicated the board had suspended Howard without pay on July 29. The letter said a hearing would be conducted by the board and that Howard "should be prepared to discuss" his situation.

When asked about Howard's suspension, Chairman Crenshaw yesterday said he had no comment. He did say the board had investigated "rumors" and found no evidence that would lead to the removal of Howard from his position.

"Mr. Howard is carrying out the wishes of the board in regard to the operation of OIC. We have complete confidence in Mr. Howard in that regard."

Mrs. Hazel Cochran, OIC director of training, declined to discuss Howard's suspension, saying only that she was named acting executive director of OIC Aug. 1. She said the appointment ended Thursday morning "when he (Howard) returned."

The OIC headquarters is in the former Eleanora Club building at Britain and Columbus avenues in Benton Harbor.

Howard lives at 206 South George street, Berrien Springs.

Both Dixon Beverage and Crown funeral supplies, said his businesses are rapidly outgrowing his four existing warehouses and he needs to build a fifth one.

He said the city has refused to issue him a building permit, however, because of the pending new ordinance that would prohibit him from expanding.

He said he would be allowed to build the warehouse if the present zoning of light industrial were to continue.

Hadley said that if he is not allowed to expand, he may have to relocate his business outside the city limit because he must be next to a railroad siding.

He said he does not understand why the city would want to chase out businesses that employ about 300 people and pay over $50,000 in taxes each

U.P. Kidnaping Baffles Police

NEGAUNEE, Mich. (AP) — State Police and FBI agents admitted they were baffled today as they scoured Michigan's Upper Peninsula and watched the Wisconsin border in a manhunt for an escaped convict who abducted a 58-year-old woman and fled in her car.

The escapee, 22-year-old Douglas Henry of Lansing, was armed with a knife and police said the convicted burglar vowed long ago he would never return to prison. Henry walked away Monday from a minimum security prison farm operated by Marquette. He vanished after abducting Evelyn VanTassel of Marquette Thursday afternoon and driving away with her in her light blue 1974 Volkswagen.

"It is just like they slipped into thin air," said a state police spokesman at the Negaunee post.

Henry and his prisoner were last seen several hours after the abduction buying gasoline near Rapid River, officials said. Rapid River is about 70 miles east of Wisconsin, but border alerts failed to turn up any leads. The FBI joined the search on the chance that Henry drove across state lines.

A trooper said "we have no idea where he went" after Henry and his hostage left the gas station near Rapid River about 65 miles south of Marquette.

Henry could have headed east from the interchange toward St. Ignace and the Mackinac Bridge or west toward Menominee and a bridge into Wisconsin. Troopers checked cars at all bridges between the two states.

Lansing Det. Randy Kober, who is working with state police on the case, said, "We consider him (Henry) to be armed and extremely dangerous. He has made statements to the effect that he is not going back to prison and that he will go down on the street if he has to."

Witnesses at the gas station said Mrs. VanTassel appeared unharmed at the time of the gasoline purchase, the attendant told troopers.

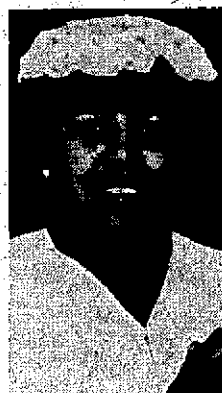

WALKING STICK INSECT: Charles Sirk, 1952 East Empire, avenue, Benton Harbor, holds jar containing walking stick insect, one of nature's unusual creations. Close-up of insect is shown at right. Sirk said he found insect on his garage door Thursday. Spokesman at Berrien county agricultural extension office said walking stick insect is not uncommon. But they are hard to spot because of resemblance to twigs of trees and shrubs upon which most feed and live. Sirk said he plans to turn insect over to extension office for study by 4-H groups. Sirk is husband of Benton Township Supervisor Catheryn J. Sirk. (Staff photos)

Gas-Oil Drilling Stalled

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A hearing is slated for Sept. 8 on an Ingham County judge's order blocking expanded gas and oil drilling in the Pigeon River Country State Forest. Opponents of drilling won a last-minute restraining order Friday which prohibits oil companies from starting to clear drilling sites as they planned today. They planned to begin drilling next week. Circuit Court Judge Michael Harrison issued the order forbidding oil companies from clearing land, widening roads, moving in heavy equipment or taking any other action related to drilling. Harrison's order came after the state Natural Resources Commission had refused earlier in the day to block the drilling. The hearing set by Harrison will be used to decide whether the ban on drilling should continue pending the outcome of a court suit filed several months ago by opponents of the exploration.

Room For Tourist Boom

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. (AP) — Revenue from tourism in northern Michigan could be increased up to 500 per cent, a study concludes. Gov. William Milliken, who received the study at the meeting of the Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission, said it shows there is much room for growth in tourism in the northern part of the state. "Although many parts of Michigan are now attracting tourists in record numbers, the full potential of northern Michigan as an attraction for the traveling public is yet to be realized," he said. The study was funded by a commission grant of $188,750. It showed that tourism in the state's 45 northernmost counties generates more than $850 million in business and 6.3 per cent of the area's personal income.

NMU Pact Rejected

MARQUETTE, Mich. (AP) — Faculty members at Northern Michigan University have rejected 194-0 a tentative contract proposal by the university. That means members of the bargaining American Association of University Professors start the fall term Monday without a contract. AAUP Local president Robert McClellan said members will start classes on schedule. They will decide Sept. 7 whether to "withhold services" or negotiate further. The university and faculty have been negotiating since May on a contract to replace one which expired July 1. An AAUP spokesman said the two sides are far apart in the dispute, which centers on salary and benefits.

NLRB 'Will Not Act'

ISHPEMING, Mich. (AP) — Ishpeming Steel Corp. says the National Labor Relations Board will not act on charges made by the firm's striking workers. The workers, who have been on strike since May 24, accused the company of delaying negotiations until the night the old contract expired. They also said the firm didn't give its negotiators authority to reach a settlement. The company said the NLRB notified it by letter that no complaint would be issued on the charges. The company replaced its striking workers, members of the United Steelworkers, in July.

N-Plant Radiation Cited

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Radiation from nuclear power facilities may have a substantially greater effect on nearby plants and animals than is generally believed, says a University of Maryland researcher. Using a unique method of measuring the amount of radioactive carbon absorbed by plants, environmentalist Kenneth R. Dixon said he came up with radiation levels substantially higher than those found using normal test methods. Dixon's findings were presented Wednesday to the Ecological Society of America's annual meeting at Michigan State University. Although Dixon's calculations did not show a dangerous level of radioactivity in the plants sampled, he warned that the accepted method of testing could lead researchers to underestimate the impact of radiation on all living organisms, including humans.

U.S. Okaying State Grants

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The U.S. Economic Development Administration is approving grants of $10 million for three Michigan projects, say state officials. The funds will go to construct an academic and vocational school at the Muskegon Correctional Facility, a health sciences and arts building at Ferris State College, and a warehouse and maintenance building for Lake Superior State college, the governor's office announced Thursday.

Holmes' Plan Panned

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken says any suggestion that the state police be dismantled and turned into a highway patrol is contrary to the public's interest. Although Milliken didn't mention state Sen. David Holmes of Detroit, a prepared statement released by the governor's office obviously was a reaction to Holmes' call for breaking up the agency. Holmes, a Democrat, charged state police with "empire building" and said he wants the agency dismantled and most of its duties given to other departments. "Those who are truly interested in the health and welfare of the people of Michigan will not take it seriously," Milliken said of the suggestion.

Signup Begins Monday At Galien High School

GALIEN — Students in grades seven through 12 who will attend Galien high school this year should register at the school Monday through Wednesday, school officials have announced.

Registration will be conducted from 9 a.m. until noon each day. School for students in grades one through 12 begins with a morning session only on Tuesday, Sept. 11.

Morning kindergarten sessions also start Sept. 6, with afternoon kindergarten classes beginning Wednesday, Sept. 7.

Students in grades one through six who attended Galien schools last year do not need to be pre-registered, school officials said.

New students in grades one through six can register any weekday at the school before Sept. 6.

Brighton, Mich., was treated and released from Bronson hospital.

From the Hamilton van, those treated and released included Austin Meyer, 16, Henry Meyer, 16, and Duncan Meyer, 13, all of West Lafayette, Ind.; David Cox, 17, Battle Ground, Ind.; and Elizabeth Hamilton, nine weeks, Cincinnati. Still being treated this morning at Borgess were Steve Olson, 13, and William Hamilton, nine weeks, both of Cincinnati.

The Hamilton babies are the twin son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton, police said. Troopers said the accident remains under investigation and no tickets have been issued.

Two South Haven Bikers Hurt By Hit-Run Pickup

By TOM RENNER

SOUTH HAVEN — Two teenagers on bikes were injured when struck by a hit-and-run vehicle on M-140 south of I-196, South Haven township, early today, according to state police of the South Haven post.

Anthony Kuenzli, 17, of 413 Van Buren street, South Haven, was reported in fairly good condition today at South Haven Community hospital with leg injuries. Ernest Garcia, 17, of 422 Cable street, South Haven, was released after treatment at the South Haven hospital.

Troopers said the boys reported they were southbound on M-140 at about 12:45 a.m. when they were struck from behind by a red pickup with a wooden camper. The vehicle did not stop, the youths said.

A third teenager in the group, James Smith, 19, South Haven, was not injured. Kuenzli told this newspaper that none of the bikes had lights or reflectors.

Wyndwicke Purchase Nearing Completion

BY LARRY MacINTYRE
Staff Writer

The investment group holding an option on the 235-acre Wyndwicke country club announced yesterday it is proceeding with the purchase of the 18-hole course and some smaller adjacent parcels. The entire area to be acquired covers 268 acres, according to Roger Curry, one of six investors in the limited partnership. Curry, who is heading the partnership, is also executive vice president of the Twin Cities Area Chamber of Commerce.

Curry said papers to exercise the option were signed yesterday and the purchase is to be completed within 30 days. He did not disclose purchase price.

The group will continue to operate Wyndwicke as a public course and is planning to subdivide the remaining land into about 150 lots for single-family homes, according to Curry.

The home lots will be threaded through the course in such a way that every lot has a view of a fairway, tee or green, Curry said.

The minimum lot size will be 20,000 square feet with the average at about 22,000 square feet or one-half acre, Curry said. The development is aimed at homes in the top middle income bracket and up.

Curry said the group plans to fully develop the subdivision with sewer, water and storm drainage lines.

The golf course is being purchased from John G. Yerington, of 1804 US-33, Benton township, and Dwain Rauhoff of suburban Chicago. The smaller adjoining parcels being acquired are owned by the John G. Yerington Realty Co.

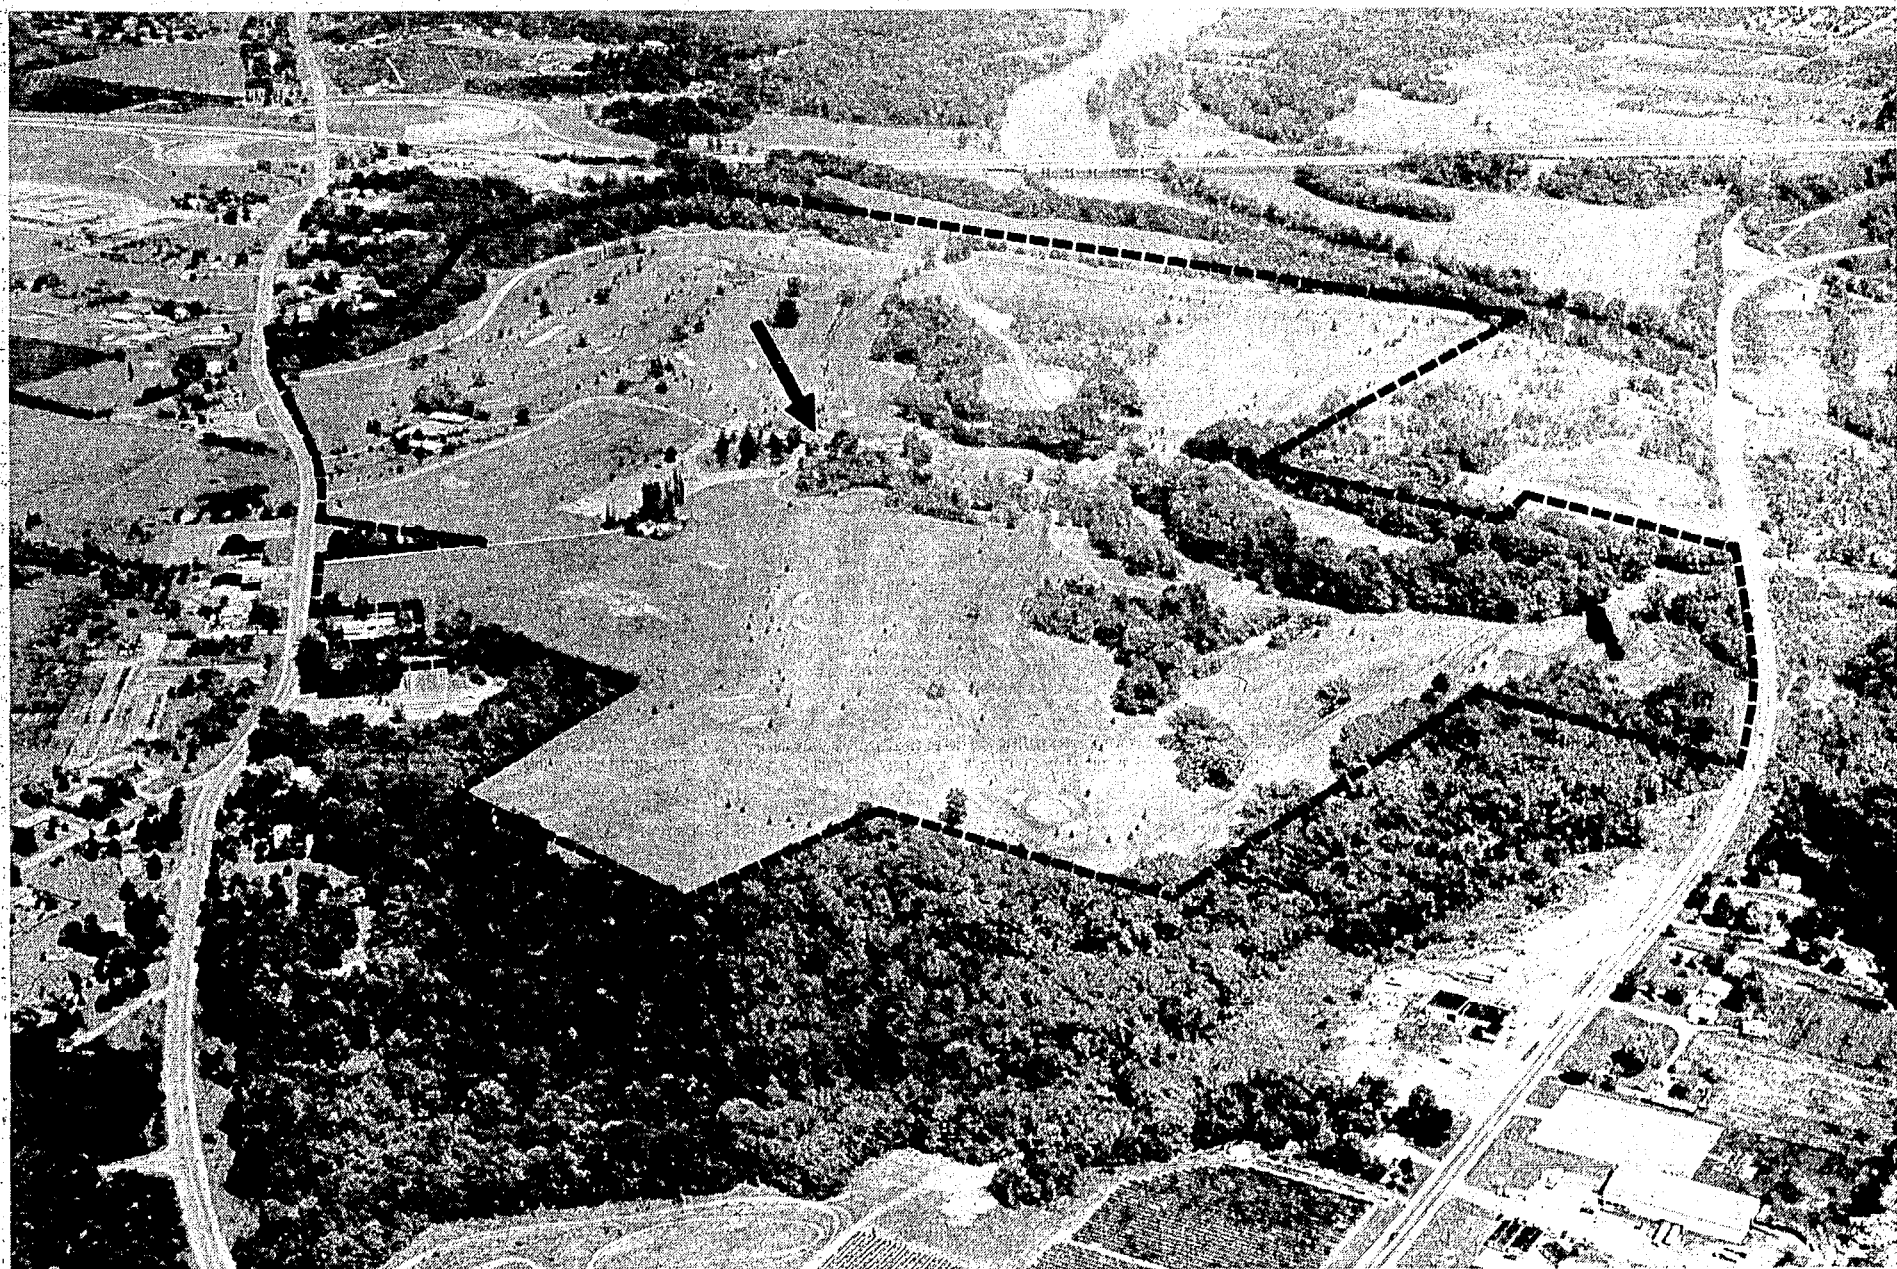

The South Bend architectural firm of Crumlish, Sporleder & Associates has been retained to prepare subdivision plans. Preliminary plans are expected to be completed this month, Curry said.

Other members of the limited partnership are David F. Upton, president of the Southwestern Michigan Abstract & Title Co.;

Stephen E. Upton, vice president of consumer and public affairs, Whirlpool Corp.; Jack Sparks, Whirlpool executive vice president; Stephen M. Murphy, president of Williams Bros. Paper Box Co.; Foster Daugherty, chairman of the board of the Michigan National Bank — Michiana, in Cassopolis; and Ray Bauer, president of the bank.

The group is called the Wyndwicke Development Corporation and is represented by Atty. Alfred Butzbaugh of St. Joseph.

It has been managing the course and clubhouse during the summer.

Berrien Jobs Hit Three-Year High

BY MIKE WYNGARDEN
Staff Writer

The total number of people employed in Berrien county in July reached the highest level recorded in more than three years, according to the Michigan Employment Securities Commission (MESC).

However, a large number of college and high school students who could not find jobs this summer caused a slight rise in the monthly unemployment rate for July.

The MESC reported July employment in Berrien totaled 71,700 people — the most employed in the three years of records the MESC has on file, according to Isabel Nutt, manager of the St. Joseph MESC office.

July's unemployment rate was reported at 8 per cent, up .5 per cent from June's 7.5 per cent unemployment rate.

Mrs. Nutt said the unemployment rate increase was due largely to college and high school students who became part of the labor force statistics when they filed for unemployment benefits after they were unable to find jobs this summer. The MESC reported the labor force rose by 600 people during July, from 77,300 to 77,900.

July's 8 per cent unemployment rate is down 3 per cent from the unemployment rate recorded in July, 1976. A total of 8,400 people were unemployed a year ago, compared to 6,200 in July this year.

The total number of people employed has been steadily rising during the past three months. In May, there were 70,700 people employed in Berrien and in June, 71,500 people had jobs.

Mrs. Nutt said the total 71,700 people employed during July this year has probably not been matched since the summer of 1973. In the three years of records the MESC has on file, only the 70,500 people recorded working during August, 1974, comes close to the recent three-month high, she said.

SCHOLARSHIP: Terry Blakely, Paw Paw, has been awarded a two-year U.S. Army ROTC scholarship to complete his junior and senior years at Western Michigan University. Scholarship will provide for tuition, fees and books as well as $100 a month stipend. Scholarship selection was by WMC military science department. Blakely will serve four years in Army after graduation. He is son of Mr. and Mrs. Terrence Blakely.

VAN BUREN COURT CASES

Three Dads Owe $6,403

By DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — Three men owing a total of $6,403 in back child support payments were found in contempt yesterday in Van Buren circuit court.

Visiting Judge Harry Beach of Allegan county sentenced John McKenzie, Kalamazoo, to serve 90 days in jail for being $741 in arrears for one child on ADC. The judge said McKenzie could avoid the jail stay by paying $500 on the arrearage.

Charles Spangler, 621 Oak street, Paw Paw, was ordered to serve 30 days in jail for arrearages of $3,232 for four children on ADC. Spangler may purge himself of the sentence by paying $75.

Morris Livers, route 2, 72nd avenue, Covert, was ordered to pay $300 toward arrearages of $2,430 for three children on ADC or serve 30 days in jail. Livers was also ordered by Judge Beach to sign a weekly wage assignment of $95.

The Friend of the Court's office said that 19 other persons scheduled to appear during yesterday's monthly child support hearings made advance arrangements to pay a total of $1,759 on arrearages.

In other cases, the Friend of the Court's office reported that: Claude Turner, route 1, Covert, was ordered to sign a weekly wage assignment of $65 plus another $5 per week toward arrearages of $750 for three children on ADC.

Engene Chamberlain, Mattawan, was ordered to sign a weekly wage assignment of $40 for arrearages of $1,450 for two children on ADC.

Paul Hutson, route 1,

Bloomingsdale, paid $200 on arrearages of $624 for two children on ADC and was ordered to sign a weekly wage assignment of $26.

Solar Heated Open House Slated Sept. 4

An open house will be held Sept. 4 at the site of a solar heated house, according to its builders, Sanford and Son, a Watervliet building firm. The house is located on Yund road in Bainbridge township and the open house will be from 1 to 5 p.m. An open house was held early this summer at the site before construction was completed.

ANOTHER 3 WEEKS LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State transportation officials say it will take another three weeks of repairs before the Mackinac Straits rail ferry Chief Wawatam is ready to resume service.

Buchanan's Schools To Start On Sept. 6

BUCHANAN — Some 2,300 students will start classes at Buchanan Community schools with a full-day session, Tuesday, Sept. 6, according to Dr. Earl Hogan, superintendent. Dr. Hogan said buses will operate the first day, but the elementary school hot lunch program will not begin until Tuesday, Sept. 12. Cost of the hot lunches is 35 cents per meal plus five cents for a half-pint of milk, the same as last year. Teacher orientation day is Tuesday, Aug. 30, with staff meetings slated for Wednesday and Thursday, Aug. 31 and Sept. 1, he said.

Coloma To Start Sept. 6

COLOMA — Classes at Coloma public schools will begin Tuesday, Sept. 6, with a full day of school with kindergarten students attending either their morning or afternoon session, according to Ronald Clark, assistant school superintendent. All buses will be running opening day and hot lunches will also be served. Cost of the lunch program is 35 cents per meal for grades 1-4 and 40 cents for grades 5-12, if weekly tickets are purchased.

Students in grades eight through 12 must pay a $15 book deposit that will be refunded at year's end if books are returned undamaged, school officials said. Parents of kindergarten pupils should determine whether their children are to attend morning or afternoon class sessions by calling the elementary offices. School officials said kindergarten students not registered yet should be registered at respective elementary school offices next Monday through Wednesday, from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. rth certificates and health records are required for registration.

U.S. Woman Ref, Basketball Teams Capture Spotlight

SOFIA, Bulgaria (AP) — Darlene May of Los Angeles made basketball history Friday as the first woman to referee a men's international basketball game.

American men's and women's basketball teams shoot for their own spot in basketball's record books today, the final day of competition at the World University Games.

Although U.S. men's basketball teams have long dominated world tournaments, American women have never won a major international title. Victories by both would be a rare gold medal double.

The U.S. men rolled over Czechoslovakia 85-69 and the U.S. women upset Bulgaria 87-84 Friday to reach the finals against teams from the Soviet Union.

The Soviet men edged Canada 73-68 to set up a rematch with the U.S. team that beat them in the semifinal round of the 31-nation tournament. The Soviet women stayed undefeated by routing Cuba 93-45. They beat the U.S. women earlier this week.

American swimmer Bonnie Glasgow celebrated her 18th birthday Friday by winning her third gold medal of the student games in the women's 200-meter medley.

Although Miss May's officiating of the men's consolation round basketball match between Italy and France didn't earn her a medal, it was perhaps the most remarkable female performance of the day.

Last week, the brunette ended an all-male monopoly on refereeing at major amateur basketball competitions by calling the fouls in a women's game. Some doubted that she could contend with male players, but on Friday she dispelled all skepticism.

Sharing officiating with a Danish man, Miss May immediately established her authority over both male teams.

The 5-foot-7 woman started the game by tossing up the ball at the opening jump, and less than a minute later she whistled down a foul by fouling a Frenchman under his own basket.

The Italian team, one of Europe's best amateur squads, won the game.

Miss May was the first American woman to be sanctioned by the International Basketball Federation to officiate at the international level. She earned the classification in 1975 but didn't have a chance to show her ability until this tournament.

In addition to refereeing, Miss May is head women's basketball coach at Cal State-Pomona, where her teams have won 64 games and lost only 18 in the last three years.

PORTMARNOCK, Ireland — Hubert Green showed the form that enabled him to win the U.S. Open Golf Championship two months ago when he fired a three-under-par 69 for the second-round lead in the $70,000 Irish Open. At the halfway point, Green had a pace-setting 139-five under.

ST. PAUL, Minn. — Laura Baugh and Kathy Ahern fired four-under-par 69s to share a one-stroke lead after the opening round of the fifth annual Patty Berg Classic. Bonnie Lauer, Marilyn J. Smith and Hollis Stacy were tied, one stroke back with a 70.

YACHTING

NEWPORT, R.I. — Courageous, skippered by Ted Turner, continued her domination of the America's Cup final defense series defeating Ted Hood's Independence by 48 seconds. The victory gave Turner a record of 8-1 in the final series, while Independence, Courageous' sister yacht, slipped to 3-5. Enterprise, skippered by Malin Burnham, had the day off to do some bottom work and was at 2-7.

TENNIS

BROOKLINE, Mass. — Chilean Patricio Cornejo upset sixth-seeded Roscoe Tanner 5-7, 6-1, 6-4 in the third round of the $125,000 U.S. Pro Tennis Championships. In other action, France's Patrice Dominguez, who earlier in the week eliminated three-time winner Ken Rosewell, lost to unseeded Sherwood Stewart 6-4, 7-6.

HARRISON, N.Y. — Ilic Nastase and John McEnroe scored straight set victories in the $25,000 Tennis Week Open Tournament at Westchester Country Club. Nastase boosted his record to 2-0 in the five-day round robin competition with a 6-2, 7-5 victory over Ricardo Cano of Argentina. McEnroe beat Matt Mitchell of Palo Alto, Calif., 7-5, 6-2 in an 81-minute match.

TRACK AND FIELD

BERLIN, Germany — Rosemarie Ackermann of East Germany set a world record for the women's high jump at a track and field meet at West Berlin's Olympic Stadium, jumping 6 feet 6 1/2 inches. The Olympic champion, 25, bettered her own world record of 6-5 1/2 that she had set only two weeks ago in Helsinki.

Lions Cut Greenwood

ROCHESTER, Mich. (AP) — The Detroit Lions are releasing rookie offensive lineman Dave Greenwood.

Greenwood, 6 feet, 3 inches tall and 240 pounds from Iowa State, was the Lions' 12th-round draft pick but saw only limited action in the three exhibition games. He goes on waivers.

The action Friday left 58 active players on the roster, which must be cut to 52 under National Football League rules by next Tuesday.

Unusual Shot

Golf is sometimes for the birds... just ask Jim Case of St. Joseph. He hit a ball into a tree from the No. 5 fairway at Berrien Hills Thursday evening, and it stayed there. Case took a penalty stroke because he didn't have "a ladder tall enough" to it hit out of the branches.

Eau Claire To Field Young Team Quickness Beaver Key

EAU CLAIRE — Coach Tom Ferry's Eau Claire football team won't be the kind that can just run over people.

But if a foe gives them an inch of daylight — may just run right past them.

"We have a very quick team this year," Ferry states. "We are as quick as we've ever been."

Eau Claire, 1-8 last season, graduated the entire backfield, "but the kids who played behind them saw a lot of action," he says.

A pair of juniors, quarterback Tim Garrison (5-9, 150) and fullback Kevin Mitchell (6-0, 180), will be in the backfield along with senior tailback Dave Yircoll (5-9, 150).

Other returning starters include junior tight end Jeff Juergensen (5-9, 145), senior tackle Louis Boers (6-0, 180), senior guard Santo Costanzo (5-11, 200) and senior guard Steve Rosenberg (5-10, 170).

Two other lettermen — senior wingback Ed Armstrong (5-8, 140) and junior guard Jay Merrill (5-8, 165) — will also see action.

Besides Armstrong and Juergensen, Garrison will have Will Renbarger, a 5-11, 145-pound senior, to catch passes.

"We're optimistic about this season, but we are awfully young," Ferry comments.

On the defensive line, Costan-za and Boers will anchor the trenches along with Mitchell and possibly sophomores Mike Kremers (6-0, 185) and John Hopkins (5-10, 150).

Yircoll and Juergensen and Rick Fecho are slated for work as linebackers along with sophomore Curtis Bolon.

Defensive backs include Garrison, Armstrong, Renbarger, Alfred Dyson (5-10, 150), Richard Fentress (5-8, 150), Brian Harner and Ken Hughes (5-11, 155). Fentress could also see action at tailback.

"The inexperience is bound to hurt us right away," Ferry says. "But I think we will be able to overcome that."

"We don't have any overwhelming size either."

Ferry says his offense will be about the same as last season.

"We will have the same passing attack as last season, but we will have a real good running attack."

Unbeaten Seattle Tough Challenge For Detroit

SEATTLE (AP) — The Seattle Seahawks will try to keep winning and the Detroit Lions hope to stop losing when the two clubs meet tonight in a National Football League exhibition game.

A Kingdom crowd of more than 60,000 was expected for the 6 p.m. PDT matchup.

The surprising Seahawks will be looking for their fourth straight preseason victory, without a defeat. Seattle's latest triumph was a 12-0 victory over the Super Bowl champion Oakland Raiders nine days ago.

Detroit, meanwhile, saw its preseason record dip to 1-2 following its second straight defeat Sunday, a 17-13 setback to Cincinnati in a nationally televised game.

"It's a heck of a challenge playing them," said veteran quarterback Bill Munson, the former Lions' quarterback, who came to the Seahawks in a trade last season.

"They're very aggressive. They love to play defense," Munson added.

Tight end John McMakin, selected by the Seahawks from Detroit last year in the veteran allocation, echoed Munson's evaluation.

"They have good personnel on defense. They give you a lot of different looks. You never know what's going to happen," McMakin said. "They blitz with both the strong safety and weak safety and they block a lot of punts. I hope it comes out better than it did last year."

In a regular season game here last year, Detroit's defense intercepted six Seattle passes in a 41-14 romp.

Second-year quarterback Jim Zorn, the National Conference Offensive Rookie of the Year last season, will start for the Seahawks.

Detroit is expected to counter with six-year veteran Joe Reed, the Lions' No. 1 backup quarterback to Greg Landry.

Sherman Smith, Seattle's leading preseason rusher, will miss the Detroit game with a sore neck sustained against Oakland. Ralph Nelson, who scored the winning touchdown against the Raiders, will open in Smith's spot. Don Testerman will start in the other running back position for Seattle.

Detroit is expected to start

Horace King and Dexter Bussey at running back.

Coach Tommy Hudspeth has made several changes in the Lions' lineup. Veteran tight end Charlie Sanders will start in place of David Hill. Defensively, Doug English will start at tackle, Ron Crosby and Ed O'Neil at linebacker, Walt Williams at cornerback and Charlie West and Dick Jauron at safety.

Explosive Offense Sparks Oklahoma Title Chances

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — The 1977 University of Oklahoma football team is hoping it can run its way to a sixth national championship.

The offensive backfield is loaded with speed burners who also happen to be big, and the tentative starting 11 on defense average a stunning 4.67 seconds in the 40-yard dash.

The Sooners' wishbone attack could field a quarterback and two backs who hit 4.5, and another back who has dipped to 4.35. But that's the second string.

The starting backfield will be composed of three 4.4 sprinters and one slow guy who'll trot along at 4.5. They're led by Junior Thomas Lott, a 5-foot-11, 200-pounder who became the No. 1 quarterback midway through last season.

Coach Barry Switzer calls him "the best we've ever had." That includes such company as Jack Mildren and Steve Davis. Dean Blueins, a senior, is Lott's backup.

The only concern about Lott is his passing. A true halfback, Lott simply did not know how to pass last year and his statistics bore that out: 12 attempts, two completions, three interceptions.

"But I've worked hard in spring practice and this summer," Lott says. "I'm confident I can get the job done." If not, Blueins is a proven passer and probably will get the nod in obvious passing situations.

Besides Lott, there are two other 4.4 sprinters in fullback Kenny King, up from 190 to 210, and left half Elvis Peacock, 205. King, a junior, was the team's leading rusher last year, and Peacock, a senior, had an excellent spring. He may be set for the super year everybody was predicting when he came to OU as a Florida prep star.

At right half, sophomore Bill Sims and junior Jim Rogers will fight it out. Sims is bigger, 210, but Rogers, 190, has the edge in experience.

The only loss the Sooners sustained out of the backfield last year was Horace Ivory, who was drafted by the New England Patriots.

The offensive line is a plus. Only one starter is gone — All-American tackle Mike Vaughan. His backup, Sam Clapham, a 6-6, 284-pound senior, will take over.

The rest of the line is intact, including tight end Victor Hicks, a 6-3, 250-pound junior who has started since his freshman year. Switzer says he's "the best in the Big Eight."

The major problems come on defense. The end slots are a shambles. Out of the top three prospective starters, two are injured and one fell victim to grades. Whoever starts there when the Sooners open at home against Vanderbilt on Sept. 10 will be inexperienced.

"We're going to take a look at a lot of people there," Switzer says, including Reggie Mathis, a tight end who is almost as good as Hicks.

The secondary is another problem. The starting four will be good, but behind them are freshmen and untested sophomores.

Linebacking should be a strong point, though, with All-Big Eight Daryl Hunt returning. He'll probably team with converted fullback George Comby, the surprise of spring training. Behind them will be proven seniors Bill Dallee and Obie Moore.

"The down linemen should be big, and that'll help," Switzer said.

Reggie Kinlaw should be healthy. A knee injury felled him last year, and he set out spring training to make sure it healed.

On either side of Kinlaw will be Paul Tabor, 250, and Richard Murray, 260. Murray is the slowest man on the starting defensive squad, but still manages to trundle through the 40 in 4.9 seconds.

So the assessment is an excellent to possibly great offense, but a questionable and problem-plagued defense that, if injuries stay away, should probably be good enough.

Returning 13 Lettermen

Quiet Optimism At Valley

THREE OAKS — River Valley coach Tom Wilcox would just as soon forget the 1976 football season.

After beating New Buffalo in their opener, the Mustangs dropped their last eight games and were shutout in five of them. Among the setbacks was a 68-0 humiliation at the hands of Cassopolis, the worst defeat in Blountland history.

River Valley scored just 38 points (4.2 per game) while giving up 215 (32.8).

But Wilcox is quietly optimistic about this season, returning 13 lettermen.

"We have no great size and no great speed," Wilcox says. "But we have a great attitude. Maturity should be one of our strong points. We have a lot of kids with a lot of experience, something we've never had before."

"The great attitude doesn't really show if someone watches one of our practices. The kids are not a bunch of rah-rah guys. But they're serious and they're very hard workers."

River Valley returns much of its backfield, including two regular quarterbacks. Buck are senior Jo Jo White (5-10, 150) and junior Mike Peterek (6-0, 155). White was injured early last season and Peterek took over from there.

Joining the two signal callers are senior lettermen Phil Marshall (5-7, 145), Doug Stark (5-1, 160) and Greg Kaiser (6-0, 170). Kaiser was the Mustangs' regular center last year, but hopes to crack into the starting backfield. Speedster Jeff Adams (6-4, 170), up from junior varsity, should also help. Adams, a junior, runs the 40 in 4.7.

Tackles Carl Jantakis (6-3, 215) and Ken Verner (6-1, 200) and guard John Jackson (5-9, 165) all lettered last season, but the remaining line spots are up for grabs.

Juniors Jerry Rusenhuil (6-0, 144) and Seth Palenske (5-11, 150) are battling for the center slot. Seniors Brian Troxell (5-11, 185), Dave Sinner (5-8, 155) and John Lundquist (5-11, 165) are guard hopefuls.

Seniors Wally Cross (6-1, 185), Bruce Sturk (5-8, 145) and Mark Veneklasen (5-10, 175) and juniors Bill Vaughn (5-8, 125) and Pat Vance (5-10, 145) have their sights set on the end spots.

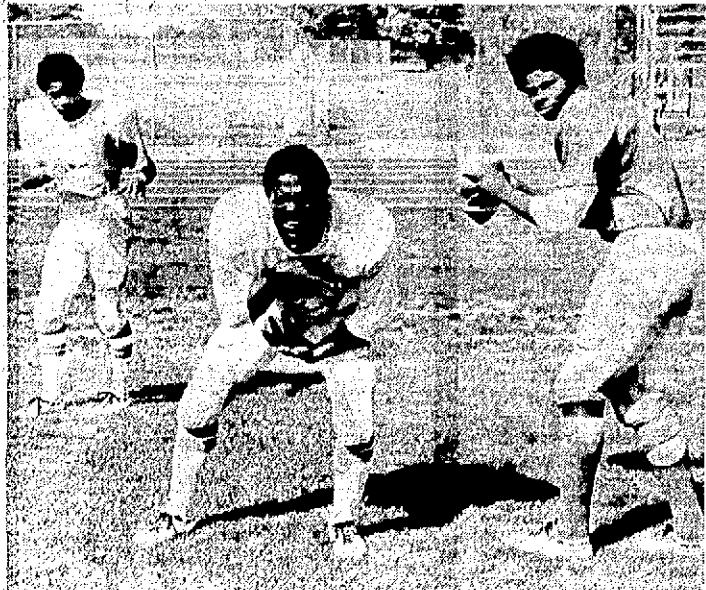

"While everyone else in the league has been blowing their horns, we remain quietly optimistic," Wilcox says. "Our biggest problem will be lack of speed."

"We have to work on our passing attack. For one thing we have to have better protection for our quarterbacks."

Because of his team's lack of speed, Wilcox is switching from the Veer to the Power-I offense.

Bulldogs Showing New Enthusiasm

COVERT — There is a new football field, a new attitude and a new feeling of enthusiasm at Covert this year.

"I feel better each fall about football," comments Bulldog head coach Bill Howe. "This year, we had a camp in Grand Junction and a dozen kids went. I was very pleased with it."

For the first time in many years, Covert will also field a junior varsity team. "And we have 18 freshmen out, which shows that is on the swing up," Howe adds.

Senior Ken Erwin (5-8, 160), an all-Allegan-Ottawa conference running back, returns to anchor the backfield. Senior Dwight McCray (5-11, 180) will be the quarterback. McCray and Erwin traded duties at field general last season.

Michael Jones, a 5-9, 175-pound junior will come in at the fullback slot while Kelvin Mun-ning (6-0, 175) is the slot back.

On the line, Raymond Freeman, a 5-8, 194-pound junior, returns at offensive and defensive tackle. At the other tackle will be senior George Newell (6-1, 180). Senior Tracy Jefferies (5-11, 155) is back at center and Eric Frige (5-10, 170) is getting a look at tight end.

Howe is pleased that 15 gridders who played for him last season return.

"The strength of this team is the senior leadership," Howe beams. "I see a lot of enthusiasm out there. They see they have a chance to win this year."

Howe looks at Saugatuck to take the A-O, but it could get a run for the title from Hopkins.

Allendale was reinstated to the league after it declined to reschedule Covert on a home-and-home basis.

With the addition of Allendale, the Bulldogs will play nine games — seven of them at home.

Tourney Contest On TV

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — The Atlantic Coast Conference and ABC-TV's Wide World of Sports have signed a contract to televise nationally the 1978 ACC basketball tournament championship.

The title game of the tourney will be played Saturday, March 4, at Greensboro Coliseum.

The game will be shifted to 4:30 p.m., and will mean the normally three-day event will be stretched to four days. The opening round will be Wednesday, March 1, rather than the usual Thursday, with one game in the afternoon and two in the evening.

The semifinals will be played Thursday night and the two winners will then have Friday off before meeting in the televised championship on Saturday.

Casper Returns To Open

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — Billy Casper, the winner of the first Buick Open in 1958, will return for this year's $100,000 golf event.

Casper joins five other prior Buick Open winners committed to compete this year. They are Buddy Allin, Homero Blancas, Jim Colbert, Dale Douglass and Bobby Mitchell.

This year's meet will be next Thursday through Sept. 4 at the Flint Elks Club. A field of 226 golfers had signed up through Thursday, officials announced.

Berrien Tickets Now Available

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Berrien Springs season football tickets and athletic activity tickets are now on sale at the high school office Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Season tickets for the five home football games are priced at $7 for adults and $5 for students. Activity tickets which are good for admission to all regular season home athletic events are $10 for adults and $10 for students.

Lincoln Township Sewer District Hearing Monday

PROPOSED SEWER DISTRICT: Area inside dotted lines is proposed sewer district in Lincoln township. On Monday, at 7:30 p.m. a public hearing on proposed $9.4 million sewer system will be held at Lakeshore high school auditorium. Hearing is a mandatory federal Environmental Protection Agency requirement in order for township to obtain federal and state funding which would pay for half of system's cost. Estimated costs, including individual property owner expenses such as special assessments, hook-up fees and sewer rates will be explained by Barger Engineering, St. Joseph. Mrs.

Bernice Tretheway, township supervisor, said properties now served by water are in proposed sewer district. Village of Stevensville already has its own sewer collection system. Proposed sewer expansion project would be largest program ever undertaken by township. Mrs. Tretheway said the EPA demands that information on proposal has been made available to those property owners concerned. "This can best be demonstrated by good attendance at the public hearing," she said.

$3 Million Lincoln Apartments Planned

BY MIKE WYNGARDEN
Staff Writer

A St. Joseph contractor is planning to build a $3 million apartment complex containing 156 units on 12 acres of land along Lakeshore drive in Lincoln township.

And a $217,860 grant has been awarded to the contractor, Superior Home Builders of St. Joseph, to subsidize rents of senior citizens in a portion of the apartment complex.

The apartments are proposed for the west side of Lakeshore drive just south of the Maiden lane intersection. Robert Pozilwilko, Superior Home Builders president, said the development is pending purchase of the property and several other transactions with the federal government.

Superior Home Builders was issued a building permit recently in Lincoln township to build the apartment complex in seven, three-story buildings. A swimming pool, community building, car ports and a storage building are also proposed to be built.

The $217,860 federal Housing Assistance for the Elderly grant will provide financial assistance to help pay a portion of the rent of senior citizens living in 55 units and for non-elderly people living in 15 units of the 156-unit apartment complex, according to Pozilwilko.

Announcement of approval of the grant from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) was made yesterday by U.S. Rep. Dave Stockman's office in Washington.

Pozilwilko said the apartment complex will contain 48 one-bedroom apartments which will rent for $230 a month and 108 two-bedroom apartments which will rent for $250 a month.

Wayne Cookingham, multi-family dwelling representative for HUD in Grand Rapids, said the $217,860 federal grant will provide an annual federal subsidy to pay a portion of the senior citizens and non-elderly rent in the 70 units. The tenants in the remaining 86 units will receive no subsidy and will pay the normal rent for their units, he said.

The $217,860 federal grant will come up for renewal each year and will be based on a review of the management of the apartments, according to Pozilwilko.

Cookingham said the federal subsidies for rent will be based on income with the tenant paying 25 per cent of his income for rent. He said, as an example, a senior citizen earning $400 a month would pay $100 for rent. The federal government would subsidize $130 to pay the $230 a month rent for the apartment.

Rezoning of the site is not required for the apartment complex, according to Lincoln township Supervisor Bernice Tretheway. She said the site has been zoned for multi-family dwellings for several years and approval of the apartment complex site plan has been made by the township planning commission.

Cookingham said, as currently proposed, the apartments would be built this fall and ready for occupancy in May or June next year.

Police Say Car Chase Spans 11 Miles, Hits 100

By RALPH LUTZ
Staff Writer

A Benton township patrolman assisted by officers from the Berrien county sheriff's department and Sodus township police department arrested a man following a chase early this morning of about 11 miles at speeds up to about 100 miles an hour, according to the arresting officer.

Benton Patrolman Steve Hansen said Jerry D. Pentress, 20, Box 232-A Shanghai road, Eau Claire, was booked on charges of fleeing and eluding a police officer and reckless driving.

Hansen said Pentress was lodged in the Berrien county jail.

The chase began about 2:30 a.m. on M-139 at Fairplain plaza and ended in Pipestone township when an auto skidded through a guard rail and into a ditch off Park road near Pipestone road, Hansen said. The driver was reported unhurt.

Hansen said he began his pursuit when an auto pulled out of the plaza with its tires squealing and then speeded up on M-139 when Hansen pulled up behind it.

Hansen said he turned on overhead lights and siren and pursued the car east on Nickerson avenue and Pipestone road, along Edwards road to Hillandale road, back to Pipestone and to Park road, near Eau Claire. Benton township Sgt. Donald Watkins estimated the distance at 11 miles. Hansen said speeds of up to 100 miles an hour were reached at several points.

Hansen said he was joined by patrol cars from the sheriff's department and Sodus police department. Hansen said Berrien Sheriff's Sgt. James Bale reported that an auto not involved was forced off Pipestone road during the chase.

Miners Fear U.S. 'Plot'; Bulldoze Old Ghost Town

DENALI, Alaska (AP) — Two disgruntled miners bulldozed this gold rush ghost town into rubble in the mistaken belief that federal officials planned to make it a tourist attraction.

Doug and Dave Clark have held mining claims here for more than three years. Earlier this summer they thought they had stumbled over a plot to turn the place into a historic landmark, a designation they believed would prevent them from prospecting and mining.

Bureau of Land Management officials in Anchorage said they have no such plans. But they do have plans to investigate whether the Clark brothers violated any laws in razing a hotel, a two-story bunkhouse, a general store, buildings for processing gold, a post office and several cabins.

The Clarks said they began worrying about their three-year-old claim in July with the arrival of two BLM student interns dispatched to photograph the town and make architectural drawings of the buildings.

The Clarks said the students told them they wanted to take some pictures and look around but then moved into the hotel.

"Not only had they moved into it, but they had been clearing brush around it and setting up drafting tables in it," Doug Clark said. "No one was there, so I walked in and saw the plans they were drawing for locking up the village, which was on our property, into a historic site."

Dave Clark said he went to Anchorage to find out what was going on and came back convinced that the BLM had allocated $35,000 for road signs leading to the town and was planning to construct a visitors' center on the site.

But BLM officials insist there are no such plans and said the students were surveying the town as part of a research project.

Dave Clark said he regretted running the bulldozer through town, but he and his brother said it was the only way to keep from losing their mining claims.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Tomato Prices Tumble

The very strong tomato prices of the past couple of days collapsed back to where they were earlier in the week, on the Benton Harbor market Friday.

Other major commodities, including apples, peaches and grapes also lost ground yesterday. Cantaloupes were the only item to show a little gain.

MONDAY IN BRIDGMAN

Sand Mining Foes Call Public Meeting

BRIDGMAN — Several speakers have been announced for a public meeting to be held here Monday night by opponents of continued sand mining operations in Bridgman.

Gary Barnes, Bridgman, moderator of the meeting, said the speakers include Cheryl Sizcek, Bridgman, who will present a history of sand mining in the city; Cleve Brummel, a Lake Michigan College instructor, who will talk on the ecological value of the dunes; and Richard Walsh, Bridgman, who will give a presentation of available alternatives for the group.

The meeting will be held at the American Legion hall in Bridgman beginning at 7 p.m.

According to Barnes, the meeting is intended to bring city residents up to date with the sand mining issue, present environmental information about the dunes and to discuss ways to reach an "equitable solution to the sand mining problem."

The meeting comes on the heels of a threatened legal battle between the city and Martin Marietta Aggregates over Martin Marietta's proposal to expand its mining operations at its south mining site in the city.

The meeting is being held by a group of Bridgman residents who who said previously they want to see if there is community support for a drive to end sand mining in the city.

"We don't suggest that any of the projects proposed here will supply magic answers to energy problems," said TVA spokesman John Van Mol. "These do not cover all of the various alternative approaches that have been suggested, or even all of the approaches TVA energy research people are studying."

The most costly program, requiring $910 million, involves research into new methods of using coal more efficiently as a power plant fuel.

"As the nation's largest producer of electricity from coal, TVA's power system offers an appropriate proving ground for such techniques as fluidized bed combustion and magnetohydrodynamics," TVA Chairman Aubrey Wagner said.

U.S. Steel Plant May Be Closed

CHICAGO (AP) — U.S. Steel Corp. may be forced to shut down its plant on the city's South Side if the facility's growing financial problems don't ease, the Chicago Sun-Times reported Friday. The plant employs about 13,300.

The newspaper said employees in the plant's accounting division have been warned that closure was a definite possibility because of the impact foreign steel has had on the domestic market.

A U.S. Steel spokesman would neither confirm nor deny the report, the newspaper said.

Officer Faces Robbery Charge

DETROIT (AP) — A Detroit police officer has been charged with robbing a truck driver of $614 during an altercation on a city street.

Charles Lockett, 28, was suspended from the force pending a preliminary exam on the robbery charge Sept. 13. He is free on personal bond.

Slaying Suspect In Court

Norman S. Rodgers, 32, of 394 Linden avenue, Benton township, has been bound over to Berrien Circuit court for trial following a Berrien Fifth District court preliminary hearing on charges of open murder and assault with intent to commit murder.

He was returned to jail without bond after the hearing before Judge Leo Cook Thursday.

The charges stem from a shooting incident Aug. 16 that left one man dead and another wounded in the right arm at 1067 McAllister avenue, Benton Harbor. Killed was Chester Tucker, 27, of 785 Wauconda avenue, Benton Harbor. He reportedly died of a gunshot wound to the chest.

Injured was James Wade, 26, of 1067 McAllister.

Both men were standing on the front porch of the McAllister residence with several other people when they were wounded by a man with a rifle standing in the street. Rodgers was arrested by Benton Harbor police on a description provided by witnesses.

In other District court action yesterday, Robert E. Hutchins, 17, of 7260 Helen street, Coloma, and Arthur C. Aiken, 18, of 6248 John street, Hagar township, demanded preliminary hearings on charges of breaking and entering a pickup truck in Watervliet township Aug. 24. They were each released on personal recognizance bonds of $2,500.

Ed Modigell, 34, of 315 Orchard, Dowagiac, was sentenced to pay fines and costs of $55 each on two charges of failure to pay wages. He was accused of failing to pay $29.61 to Karen Brunkel and $92 to Annette Skungs for work at the Red Feather restaurant, Lincoln township, June 30 through 26. The restaurant has since closed. Modigell was also ordered to make restitution.

Also sentenced were: Louise Crawford, 47, of Michigan City, Ind., $122 for shoplifting items valued at $1.73 at Hilltop Foods, Benton Harbor, Aug. 25.

Milton Walker, 50, of the Robert Froehlich farm in Eau Claire, $75 or 10 days in jail for possession of an unregistered .38-caliber pistol in Eau Claire Aug. 26.

Robert C. Watkins, 19, of 210 South Elm street, Three Oaks, $102 or 14 days for impaired driving in Chikaming township Aug. 26.

Walter Jordan, 18, of 852 McGuigan, Benton Harbor, $125 or 30 days for shoplifting a quart of beer from the Park party store, Benton Harbor, Aug. 24.

E.L. Wright, 19, of 718 Crystal court, Benton township, $125 for shoplifting a vest at Bargain Center, Benton township, Aug. 6.

Charles R. Rand, 47, of Lansing, $152 or 30 days for driving while intoxicated in Lincoln township Aug. 26.

Sentenced for reckless driving were Louis Jackson, 62, of 1265 Broadway, Benton Harbor, $12; and Oliver W. Wright, 23, of 1307 270, Smith road, Galien, $200 or 90 days.

Sentenced for driving with a suspended license were Richard L. Halfacre, 19, of 470 Broadway, Benton Harbor, three days and $62; and Fred Grimes, 53, of Box 150 Townline road, Sodus, three days and $60.

BUYER: Clay Felker, above, former New York magazine editor, and British publishing magnate Vere Harmsworth bought Esquire magazine Friday. New owners said they were making a "substantial investment" with the purchase of the magazine, a long-rumored move capping years of losses. (AP Wirephoto)

END OF ROAD: Utility pole, tree and fire hydrant (not shown) all were rammed by this auto in front of 237 Lake street, Benton Harbor, about 3:05 a.m. today, according to Patrolman James Spalo who said he witnessed crash. Spalo said driver and sole occupant was treated at Mercy hospital and booked on charge of driving under influence of intoxicants. He was identified as James E. Hayes, 28, of 1648 East Britain avenue, Benton township. Spalo said auto traveled north on Pavone street, but missed turn onto Lake, where Pavone ends. Spalo said he was nearby on unrelated complaint at time. (Staff photo)

WITNESS ILL Defendant Guilty Of Lesser Charge

A defendant being tried Thursday in Berrien Circuit court was allowed to plead guilty to a lesser charge when a key prosecution witness became ill before she testified.

Asst. Prosecutor Thomas Gezon said the witness, a pregnant Flint woman, was taken to the emergency room of Memorial hospital, St. Joseph, where a doctor ordered her to return home and stay off her feet for at least 48 hours.

Loss of the witness disrupted the trial of Gill W. Redmond, 28, of Flint, who was charged with carrying two concealed pistols in a car in I-94, Benton township, Feb. 22.

Gezon said the trial went on long enough for State Troopers William Cahill and Joe Van Osterhout who arrested Redmond to testify. They said they found a .38-caliber revolver and a 9-millimeter automatic in a bag in the truck of a car in which Redmond was a passenger. The ill woman, identified by Gezon as Marcia Marshall, was slated to tell who she'd seen put the guns in the bag, Gezon said.

The jury was dismissed and Redmond was arraigned on a new charge. He pleaded guilty to use of codeine and continued free on $2,000 bond. Gezon said several bottles of codeine were also found in the car by troopers. The concealed weapons' charges will be dismissed when Redmond is sentenced for use of codeine, a misdemeanor charge with a maximum sentence of six months in jail, Gezon said.

William C. Yoho, 18, and Drena Michelle Cartwright, 16, both of South Bend.

Truck Driver Injured

A Benton township man received apparently minor injuries about 11:15 p.m. Friday, when a pickup truck he was driving struck a utility pole at Thomas and Esther streets, Benton Heights, according to township police.

Patrolman Steve Hansen said Charles A. Surch, 59, of 3401 Hicks avenue, refused treatment for a facial laceration. Hansen said Surch was booked on charges of reckless driving and drunk and disorderly.

Benton township police said Emma Lee Jones, 44, of 200 Elmwood road, Fairplain, sought her own treatment for injuries received in a collision involving three autos on Napier avenue near Union street about 4:30 p.m. Friday.

Police said cars driven by William Mitchell, 57, M-152, Dowagiac, and Patricia Ann Toney, 26, of 1897 Union, Fairplain, collided on Napier. Police said the impact pushed the Mitchell auto into the Jones auto, which was stopped in the exit drive at the Jewell food store. Mitchell was ticketed for failure to yield the right of way, police said.

GM Lays Off 3,300 In Delaware

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors is closing its Wilmington, Del., assembly plant and laying off 3,300 workers because of a continuing strike at a key parts plant in Indiana.

A total of 13,600 GM workers in three states were temporarily idled because of the strike at the Delco-Remy electrical parts plant in Anderson, Ind.

The Wilmington plant had been on half shifts since Wednesday. It closed Friday.

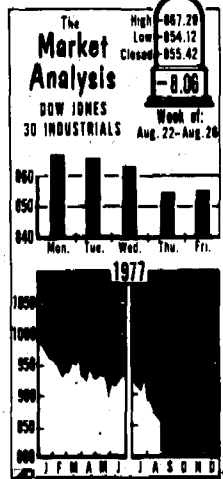

GM gets its electrical components such as starters and ignitions exclusively from the Delco-Remy plant.

The strike began Aug. 15 in a local contract dispute between the company and United Auto Workers Local 662.

Final assembly operations at GM's Cadillac assembly plant in Detroit and its companion Fisher Body plant were idle again Friday, as well as some 500 workers at the Saginaw Steering Gear complex and 360 at a Fisher Body plant in Euclid, Ohio.

Negotiations in Detroit were continuing and a GM spokesman said other plants were operating on a day-to-day basis.

Medic's License In Jeopardy

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The chief gynecologist at a Southfield hospital could be stripped of his license to practice medicine in Michigan if the state can prove that he attacked and fondled a housewife in an alleged attack last October.

The Michigan Medical Practices Board served a formal complaint Friday against Dr. Donald R. Krohn for alleged "immoral and unethical conduct on the part of the Oakland County doctor, chief gynecologist at Providence Hospital. The complaint could result in revocation or suspension of license or probation if the allegations are proven, the Department of Licensing and Regulation said.

An investigation into the charges against Krohn began in June based on newspaper reports and allegations that the Farmington Hills doctor broke into several homes, was intoxicated, fondled a female resident of one home and attempted to assault several people who came to the woman's aid, the department said.

Criminal charges of second-degree sexual conduct were filed against Krohn, but he was found innocent by Oakland County Circuit Judge William Beer on the ground that Krohn was too intoxicated to form the intent necessary to commit sexual assault.

diminished confidence in Bert Lance, despite the disclosure that the budget director pledged the same stock as collateral on two separate loans, according to press secretary Jody Powell.

But Powell acknowledges that despite administration efforts at explanation in two White House briefings Friday, "How he acted and how he responded ... is still a question that remains to be settled and will have to be dealt with."

In fact, during the day, an aide to Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., said that the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee, which is planning early September hearings on Lance's financial affairs, would add the latest disclosure to its agenda.

The two briefings in one day, an occurrence seen fewer than a handful of times since the Carter administration took office, were devoted almost entirely to questions and answers about Lance.

Powell himself said in an interview Friday evening that some of Lance's dealings represented "technical violations of law." He was not more specific about what these were.

Both briefings offered Powell a chance to restate the President's support for Lance's efforts to remain as director of the Office of Management and Budget as the weeks-old, widespread inquiry into his financial dealings as a Georgia banker continues to occupy attention in this city.

Powell did not volunteer any such reaffirmation of Carter's support and was not specifically asked to do so by reporters.

But in the interview later, the press secretary said, "It didn't seem to be necessary." Did he mean the President's confidence remained undiminished? "Yes," Powell said.

Powell said Carter had not discussed the matter with Lance and "doesn't see any reason to."

Stockman Office Will Tour Area

Congressman Dave Stockman's mobile office will visit the following Fourth District communities next week, his Washington D.C. office has announced.

The mobile office is staffed by qualified personnel to help district residents with any federally related problems they might have, Stockman's office said.

The schedule of the mobile office next week is:

Monday — Blountingdale, 9 to 10:30 a.m. at Fox Insurance; Bangor, 10:45 a.m. to noon, at West Michigan State Savings; South Haven, 1:30 to 3:30 p.m., at city hall; Covert, 3:45 to 5 p.m., at township hall.

Tuesday — Marcellus, 9 to 10:30 a.m. at the Marcellus News; Three Rivers, 10:50 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the post office;

Centerville, 2:15 to 4 p.m. at the St. Joseph county courthouse.

Wednesday — Edwardsburg, 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. at Michigan National Bank; Union, 11:45 a.m. to 12:45 p.m. at Michigan National Bank; Mottville, 1 to 2:30 p.m. at the Mottville Grocery; White Pigeon, 2:45 to 4:30 p.m. at Michigan National Bank.

Thursday — Vandalia, 9 to 10:30 a.m., across from the post office; Cassopolis, 10:45 a.m. to 1 p.m. across from the post office; Dowagiac, 2:30 to 4:30 p.m., Front and Beesom streets.

Friday, Sept. 2 — Buchanan, 9 to 11 a.m., corner Front and Days streets; Niles, 10:45 a.m. to noon, Tattle's Shell (Eastgate); 1 to 3 p.m., Chamber of Commerce office; and 3:15 to 5 p.m., Bell plaza.

ASK THEM YOURSELF

Send the question, on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR NORMAN LEAR, producer of All in the Family, Maude, etc.

How did you get your start? — D.C., Yuma, Ariz.

● At Weaver High School in Hartford, Conn., and Emerson College in Boston I wrote sketches and one-act plays. I kept writing and did some performing while in the Army Air Corps during WW II. After the War, I had a circular printed, announcing my upcoming discharge, and sent it to 12 top publicity firms in New York and Hollywood. I was soon employed by a theatrical publicity outfit, where I worked on Broadway shows and started writing my first professional comedy material.

FOR JULIA CHILD, gourmet and author

Why is okra one of the most popular vegetables around now when some time ago it was one of the most disliked? — Joel Allard, College Station, Texas

● Could be that years ago when okra was cooked like a plain vegetable, it got a little slimy, and therefore unappealing. Now we've learned how to cook it. Coat it in a good batter and fry until crisp. It's delicious that way, with much more flavor than fried potatoes.

FOR BEATRICE STRAIGHT, Academy Award winner for Network

I finally saw Network and am wondering what you did with the Oscar you got for it? — G.B., Easton, Pa.

● For the first couple of months I kept it on the mantel, so that I knew it was real and not a dream. Then, when the novelty wore off and reality set in, I put it in a drawer — a half-opened drawer (the way Laurence Olivier does) so that I could see it.

FOR DICK BUTLER, supervisor of umpires for baseball's American League

How soon will instant replays be used as a tool for umpires? — Mrs. L. Mills, Hobart, Ind.

● Certainly not in my time — but I'm a little old. Our playing area is so large that in order to obtain all the necessary angles an inordinate number of cameras would be required. I suppose someone will eventually come up with cameras sophisticated enough to handle the problem — but not in the near future.

FOR JAMES TAYLOR, singer and songwriter

What effect did becoming a celebrity have on you? — C.R., Trenton, N.J.

● An uncomfortable and unforgettable one. When I was on the cover of a national magazine, it was more of a jinx than a jewel. That kind of exposure is a publicity gimmick that very few can handle — unless you're Elton John or David Bowie. It made me overconscious of what I'd done. Everything happened so fast: I reeled under the pressure. So, to keep my sanity, I kept a low profile and concentrated on my work.

FOR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS, psychologist

What advice do you have for families moving to a new location? — Mrs. F.C. Howard, Reno, Nev.

● Get to know what makes that place tick — have your minister, banker, doctor and school principal write to their counterparts in your new town to say you're coming. Parents will find it less lonely if they participate in church or community affairs, children in sports or other activities. Make sure you choose a neighborhood — not a house. A dream house far removed from every place you want to go and everything you want to do can turn into a house of horrors.

FOR DEBBIE REYNOLDS, actress

Have you ever considered getting politically involved? — R.I., Los Angeles, Calif.

● No. At 15, I had my first and last encounter with politics. I was good at baton-twirling and tossed one into the air as I led a school parade. A strong wind, plus my strong baseball arm, directed the baton right through the window of the mayor's office.

FOR RICH LITTLE, impressionist

You claim to be a copy of a thousand voices. Is there anyone you can't impersonate? — M.F., Hot Springs, Ark.

● Bob Hope for one. I'm trying, and it's getting better all the time. But it's still not right: There are so many sounds to Bob's voice. It's casual and quiet; then he goes into a monologue, which is quite different. He's also a little nasal at times. I don't do George Jessel because others do him so well. When your peers get a voice down exactly, there's an unwritten code that others stay away.

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

Is it true that James Earl Jones was once in The Guiding Light soap opera? — S.J., Cocoa Beach, Fla.

● Jones (right) is not the only actor to list the serial among his credits. Other graduates of the show include Sandy Dennis, Jan Sterling, Ruth Warrick, Cicely Tyson, Billie Dee Williams, Ruby Dee, Barnard Hughes and Joseph Campanella. The Guiding Light recently passed its 40th-year mark (25 years on TV, 15 on radio). In that time innumerable performers started with a few lines in an episode.

FOR ROY RADIN, producer

I saw your Vandeville 77 show and am wondering what made you go into this sort of thing. Isn't vandeville a dead business? — V.T., Albany, N.Y.

● No way. Ten years ago I realized there was an audience starving for that kind of entertainment. During the past decade I've traveled the country with Donald O'Connor, George Jessel, The Ink Spots, Milton Berle, Frank Gorshin, Gloria De Haven and many others. We play to three generations in one sitting, and go over well with all ages.

PRO AND CON

Should Mandatory Retirement Be Abolished?

PRO Rep. Mario Biaggi (D.-N.Y.), age 59

Mandatory retirement has promoted an invidious form of discrimination against the elderly. Solely on the basis of age a person loses his right to equal protection with respect to employment. Performance, capability and experience are eliminated as criteria for determining a person's ability to work. In addition, mandatory retirement is costly for businesses and places added strains on the Social Security system. If people can work past 65, they can continue contributing to the system instead of merely taking from it. Legislation to abolish mandatory retirement in Federal service and to raise the maximum retirement in the private sector to 70 is nearing final Congressional action.

CON Sen. S.I. Hayakawa (R.-Calif.), age 71

With a few exceptions I say no. When public safety is involved, as in the case of railroad engineers or airline pilots, there should be age limits. For many in physically demanding occupations, retirement can be a welcome relief from daily exhaustion. If you have been at your job 30 years or more, it's time to move on. If the only thing in your life is your job, when your job is over so is your life. But what if you have always felt your life is bigger than your job? What I like about compulsory retirement is that it forces you, if you are a man or woman of spirit, to do the things you never had time to do or were afraid to do. At 65 or 70 you should be able to give up your security blanket and to pursue new challenges.

WILL CHARLIE'S NEWEST ANGEL FLY LIKE FARRAH?

At 26, Cheryl Ladd suddenly finds herself trying to fill the shoes of America's hottest and best-known television actress. The big question is, can the show stay at the top without its No. 1 drawing card.

She got her start playing one-night stands to rowdy crowds in small towns.

By Helen Dorsey

When fate reaches out and says, "You're the one. Here's your fame and fortune," you'd better be ready to handle it. That's what happened to Cheryl Ladd, who is replacing Farrah Fawcett-Majors in Charlie's Angels, and she indeed seems ready to handle the instant fame with all its side effects on her marriage and privacy.

To keep Charlie's Angels a going concern, Cheryl is being cast as Farrah's little sister. So even if the absentee blockbuster should not return (she and her husband, Lee Majors, want to form their own production company), there'll always be three Angels. Cheryl makes her debut on September 14 in a special two-hour version of the show set in Hawaii.

"I've always been a happy person," she says. "Now I have a new kind of exuberance because I'm doing something I've been waiting for so long. One of my worries is I might lose the happiness and peace I've enjoyed — having a child, being married to a wonderful man, living in a wonderful house, being with close friends. I don't want to lose all that."

Until recently, she was virtually unknown. Now the pressure of being Farrah's replacement could be crushing. But seated in the comfort of her Hollywood home, Cheryl looks anything but frazzled. Dressed in blue jeans and tank top, the 5'3", 103-pound, 26-year-old beauty is a natural candidate to join the Angels' fold.

Curiously, Cheryl, who plays Kris Munroe in the series, could pass as Farrah's younger sister in real life. She has the same scrubbed-down, wholesome good looks, but Cheryl's shoulder-length hair is soft and unarranged. Like Farrah, she is addicted to sports, including tennis, gymnastics and scuba-diving.

This newest Angel isn't worried about her acting. She began her career at 16, singing with a local home-town band in Huron, S.D., where her parents still live and her father works as an engineer with the Chicago Northwestern Railroad. "I grew up fast," she says. She began crossing the country, playing one-night stands to tough, sometimes rowdy, crowds in small towns. "It gave me a lot of poise," she says. She arrived in California seven years ago, and the band broke up there.

Since then, she has made more than 100 commercials and has appeared in an impressive list of TV series, including The Rookies, Ironside, Switch and Police Woman. She also appeared in the movie Jamaica Reef, and that's when she met her future husband, David Ladd. (He is the son of Alan Ladd, who, incidentally, was Cheryl's heartthrob when she was a kid.) David has a quick wit, and he understands the nature of fame. When recently asked how he feels about Cheryl's new role, he quipped, "It will pay the rent." When someone asked him how things had changed since Cheryl got the Angels' role, he said, "It was weird when somebody in my family wasn't famous."

Conflicting careers often lead to the breakup of marriages, and Cheryl and David went through that problem. "David wanted me to stay home and be a housewife," Cheryl recalls. "I said, 'Fine, if that's what you want. I will do that and you will be unhappy because you fell in love with someone who works and has something going for herself with a life and passion of her own. When that passion is gone, I'll be a different person."

Two days later David came to Cheryl and said, "Let's have a little talk. Go call your agent." And Cheryl, reflecting on that period, says, "I would have made the decision and given up my career if David had asked me to because I'd do anything for him."

Coping with success is a difficult problem in Hollywood, particularly for a working couple: "It's been a team effort all the way," Cheryl says. "David and I have worked very hard at it." Earlier this year, when David starred in a stage production of The Glass Menagerie in Palm Springs, she took off six weeks from work to be with him. "I helped him learn his lines, attended rehearsals every night and on opening night I was more nervous than he because I was as much up there on that stage as he was."

Like other young couples, the Ladds longed to have their own home. Their choice was a pretty, white clapboard house in the Hollywood hills. Home is important to both of them, and the house reflects their taste — wooden, sand-blasted walls, hand-rubbed wood floors, high beams, an antique piano and shelves filled with personal mementos.

Cheryl and David have a 2½-year-old daughter named Jordan, and they want to keep her out of the limelight. "I don't like Jordan to be photographed. I'm not about to push her into the celebrity thing," Cheryl says. "She's got to be a kid first. I had a happy childhood: climbing trees, skinning my knees, playing baseball. I want that for Jordan, too."

Cheryl attributes much of her down-to-earth approach to life to her parents and her Midwestern upbringing. "My father's amazing. He's a 20th-century Daniel Boone. He traps and hunts and is reserved and quiet, all warm and loving with his family. Mother can do anything, from upholstery to hanging wallpaper. I'm not all that handy, but I can do things if I set my mind to it."

Life seems serene and happy for the Ladds. Weekends are relaxed, happy times sitting around their pool. "I'll make sandwiches, and we'll play games," says Cheryl. "I know it sounds terribly boring, but it's really fun."

Cheryl clearly enjoys her comfortable life and recent fame, but her family remains her No. 1 priority. "When I look at Jordan, I think about when she will be grown-up. I grew up half old-fashioned and half in women's liberation. Jordan will grow up in a totally different time with different attitudes. I will always have one foot dragging that may cause us both some problems because there are some things that have been in me forever. They are going to come out and make me say, 'You don't do that.' Jordan's going to ask me why, and my reason won't make any sense."

"As long as we can talk to each other, however, everything will be all right. That's how you keep a marriage or any relationship together: You have to be honest and talk to each other: the minute you stop, it's all over."

STOPS YOUR ROOF LEAK In Just 5 Minutes!

It's pouring rain and your warm, dry home is invaded by a slow, drip, drip, drip of water leaking through your roof. You call your local roofer and are shocked to learn how much roofing repairs cost these days.

While you wait for the next rain to come, the wife is worried about the new sofa being ruined from the down pour of rain water... from your leaky roof.

But, now at last, the new truly revolutionary U.S. Polycast Roof Coating! Imagine! A coating so efficient, so unique, that it waterproofs and protects your roof from rains or snow all year long. U.S. POLYCOAT can be brushed or rolled on over almost any surface and dries to a rubber sheet-like film in minutes—no heating—no mixing—use straight from the can. U.S. Polycast adheres to asphalt shingles, rolled roofing, wood, brick, plywood, cement, tar, aluminum, metal, asbestos, insulation board and even urethane foam. U.S. Polycast comes in three colors... clear for any surface... black and silver to match your roof.

U.S. Polycast protects driveways, sidewalks, patios, mobile homes and parking areas, too.

But, if your roof is leaking send for U.S. Polycast today. You'll have a worry-free waterproof roof that will last for years and years. Waterproof with U.S. Polycast before you insulate!

DEALER AND APPLICATORS INQUIRES INVITED

WHEN SPOUSES CROSS SIGNALS

Experts say a number of barriers prevent some husbands and wives from communicating effectively.

By Norman Lobsenz

A quarterback throws a pass toward the left sideline, but the receiver is running down the center of the field. "What happened?" the coach growls. Answer: "We got our signals crossed."

The TV newsmen says, "Now we'll hear from Senator Smith on the tax bill." Instead, we get a commercial. Someone had gotten the signals crossed.

John Jones arrives home the night of his wedding anniversary ready to take his wife to a posh restaurant. But she just finished cooking a special dinner. The argument about whether to go out ruins the evening. They got their signals crossed or never gave each other any signals at all.

Like a football team or a newsroom staff, a marriage is a "system" — a network of people functioning with each other. The key element in the smooth operation of any system is effective communication. But surveys consistently show that such communication is the most difficult skill for couples to achieve. "Some husbands and wives have never learned how to express their ideas honestly or their feelings clearly," say Los Angeles marital therapists Jeremy and Virginia More. "Others feel so threatened by frankness that they deliberately, or unconsciously, raise obstacles to good marital talk."

Recently a group of experts compiled a list of the most common problems in couple communication:

Counter-complaining. "Why do you always drive so fast?" a woman asks her husband. "I'm not driving fast," he replies. "Why can't you ever be ready on time so we wouldn't be late for the movies?" "Counter-complaining shuts off discussion," says counselor Thomas Lasswell. "Worse than that, it can start an argument that has nothing to do with the issues."

Projecting blame. The wife who refuses her husband's advances because she has a "headache" or the husband who "has too much work" to go to a party is rejecting his or her partner. By blaming an outside force or a physical symptom, he or she is saying, "It only looks like I'm rejecting you, but it's something else I can't control." Again, the problem at the root of the conflict never gets talked about — and so never can be dealt with.

Excessive questioning. One man told a marriage counselor that whenever he wanted to have a serious discussion with his wife, she would willingly agree — but then she would prevent the conversation from getting anywhere by asking an endless series of questions. For instance: "What do you mean by that exactly?"

Norman Lobsenz is a Distinguished Affiliate of the American Association of Marriage and Family Counselors. His latest book is No-Fault Marriage (Doubleday).

"Can you give me an example?" "When did that happen last?"

Ancient history-distant future. "Wherever I try to talk to my husband about our money problems, he tells me how well off we're going to be when he sells the novel he's working on," a woman says. "He just won't face our current difficulties." Retreating into the past or dreaming about the future is a common device to short-circuit the present.

False agreement. When one husband asked his wife if she minded his going away on a weekend fishing trip, she said, "Of course not, I've got plenty to do around the house." But when he came home, she sulked and complained about having been bored and lonely. Says counselor Thomas Lasswell: "False agreement is worse than no agreement. One person is deceived, and the other is deceiving himself or herself."

Other barriers to marital communication include:

- Talking in abstract or philosophical terms when the other person wants to get down to brass tacks.
- Being reluctant to express an honest opinion when asked for it.
- Expressing your viewpoint in a dogmatic manner.
- Assuming you know what the other person means by his or her words and actions without bothering to make sure your assumptions are correct.
- Failing to listen attentively.

A SPECIAL DINNER FOR THE CLOSE OF SUMMER

With fall approaching, it's time to enjoy the last outdoor meals of the hot-weather months.

By Marilyn Hansen

A sparkling bowl of Fresh Tart Fruit Soup served with cheese and crackers starts the dinner in style.

- 1½ cups fresh peach slices
- Vodka as desired (optional)

1. In saucepan, mix plums, water, sugar and salt. Bring to boil and simmer, covered, for 10 minutes or until plums are tender. Cool slightly.
2. Pour plums and juices into blender container. Whirl smooth. Pour into 3-qt. serving bowl. Chill.
3. At serving time add fruits and vodka. Ladle into dessert bowls or punch cups.
4. Serve with cheese and crackers as a first course or dessert.

Makes about 2 qts., 8 to 10 servings

MIXED GRILL EN BROCHETTE

For each serving:

- 1 lamb loin or rib chop, cut ¾- to 1-inch thick
- 1 lamb kidney, cut in half
- Vegetable oil
- 1 link sausage, cut in half
- 2 chunks green pepper, 1-inch square
- 2 cherry tomatoes
- 3 large mushroom caps

1. Brush lamb chop and kidney with oil. On skewer, place one sausage half, then one kidney half, one piece of green pepper, the lamb chop, second piece of green pepper, remaining half of kidney and sausage.

2. Grill 3 to 4 inches from source of heat for about 20 minutes, or until desired degree of doneness, turning once.

3. Meanwhile, on skewers alternate mushrooms and tomatoes; brush with oil. Grill vegetables about six to eight minutes, turning frequently.

4. Idea: Before grilling, lamb chops, kidneys and vegetables may be marinated in ½ cup oil and vinegar salad dressing with 1 teaspoon crushed oregano or basil leaves. Use one tablespoon each of chopped fresh herbs. Brush lamb chops, kidneys and vegetables frequently with marinade during grilling time.

Quantity as desired

MIXED GREEN SALAD - WALNUT DRESSING

- 1 head romaine lettuce, washed and torn
- 2 bunches watercress
- 3 heads Boston, Oakleaf or Simpson lettuce
- 1 head Belgian endive
- 1 cup coarsely chopped walnuts
- ½ cup vegetable oil
- ½ cup lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon coarse black pepper
- 1 teaspoon grated Romano cheese

1. Wash and dry greens. Combine greens in salad bowl. Sprinkle with walnuts.
2. Make dressing: In bowl, blend oil, lemon juice, salt, pepper and Romano cheese.
3. Pour dressing over greens at table; toss.

Makes 6 to 8 servings

NEAPOLITAN POUND CAKE

- 1 pkg. (18½ ozs.) yellow cake mix
- 1 pkg. (3½ ozs.) butter pecan or vanilla instant pudding and pie-filling mix
- ½ cup vegetable oil
- 1 cup water
- 4 eggs
- ½ cup chopped, mixed candied fruit
- ½ cup canned almond paste, finely chopped
- Confectioners' sugar

1. Preheat oven to 350°F. Grease and flour a 10-inch plain or fluted tube pan.
2. In large bowl, combine cake mix, instant pudding, vegetable oil, water and eggs. Blend at low speed, then beat at medium speed for 2 minutes.
3. Add almond paste a little at a time, beating until blended. At low speed add candied fruit.
4. Pour batter into prepared pan and bake 55 to 60 minutes or until center springs back when touched lightly.
5. Cool 25 minutes in pan, then invert onto serving plate. Sprinkle with confectioners' sugar.

Makes 12 to 16 servings

New Breakthrough In Liquid Protein:
Just brush on.
Absorbs into the roots of your nails.

Builds Up Your Nails Naturally

With Liquid Vitamins You Brush On. For The Best Nails Of Your Life. See Results In Just 7 Days. Guaranteed.

You'll never again have to say, "I just can't have great fingernails."

Just imagine the longest, strongest most perfect, exciting fingernails you've ever seen. On anybody! Only this time the nails are yours. All yours. 100% natural.

And it all happened in just 7 days or less.

Well, wake up, it's not a dream. It's reality! Thanks to a new scientific breakthrough in liquid protein. You see, your nails are naturally made of protein... and when they crack and split and weaken, it's because they are dying of thirst for protein.

Before now, there wasn't much you could do but hope. Now - at last - there's a revolutionary 100% organic liquid protein conditioner that your poor overworked nails will embrace the second you brush it on. And it contains vitamins A, E and D - to nourish and help heal your nails naturally!

It's called NUTRANAIL. Because it's as organically natural as your fingernails themselves. Your nails are actually so thirsty for NUTRANAIL, the roots of your nails will soak it right up.

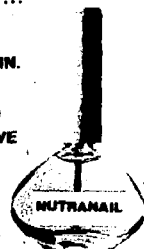

Easier to apply than polish.

Just brush on this clear odorless liquid straight from the bottle... onto your nail. Your nails will look so great, you may not want to put anything else on them. It's instantly absorbed... without drying, burning or leaving a sticky residue.

Now you can play the piano, pound the typewriter, do rough housework, gardening, anything... and still have the best looking nails you've seen on anybody. With visible results within 7 days. Or your money back in full.

NOT A HARDENER... NOT A LACQUER... CONTAINS NO FORMALDEHYDE... NEEDS NO SHIELDS. IT'S 100% NATURAL ORGANIC PROTEIN. CONTAINS VITAMINS A, E and D... TO NOURISH AND HELP HEAL DAMAGED NAILS AS NOTHING ELSE CAN. TO GIVE YOU THE LONG, STRONG, EXCITING, FLAWLESS FINGERNAILS YOU NEVER DREAMED YOU COULD HAVE.

Save Now. Special Introductory Offer.
Up To 200 Amazon Zoyzia Grass Plugs FREE

FULLY DROUGHT AND WEAR RESISTANT. Amazon lawns take cookouts, parties, lawn furniture. You could even play football on it and not get your feet muddy. Rarely (if ever!) needs watering.

Grass Seed Is For The Birds! Zoyzia Saves Time, Work, Money

By Mike Sandlin
Years ago I was like nearly everyone else with a lawn. I worried about it more than about any other thing around the house. Then things changed. My company obtained a new grass just released by the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture. In honor of the explorer, Frank Meyer, it was named Meyer Z-52 Zoyzia Grass.

We received only a small amount of this Grass — enough to plant test plots in our Nursery Farm.

From that small beginning, these few precious clumps of Zoyzia Grass spread until they built a lawn so thick and beautiful that visitors stopped to admire it.

We Tell People, "Walk On It!" Instead of saying "Keep Off The Grass," we invited visitors to walk on it. It was an unforgettable experience for them — like walking on a thick pile carpet.

After walking on it, visitors learned that Amazon Zoyzia turf was crabgrass-proof, and the next question never failed: "How can I get some?"

Other Lawns Burn Out

Now, grass is my company's business; but it was a long time before an order of Amazon Zoyzia Grass was accepted. First we wanted to see how good this grass was. We really found out!

One summer the heat was so great you could fry eggs on the highway. Daily the sun blazed from cloudless skies; the drought withered; whole ponds dried up. Meanwhile crabgrass flourished and took over lawns by the thousands. IT RESISTS DROUGHT, STAYS GREEN THRU HEAT WAVES

Through it all, our deep-rooted Amazon Zoyzia stood out like a green island in a brown wasteland.

Thrives in Poor Soils

When I planted it in sandy, clay soils and sub-soil, it took hold and thrived. Other grass in the same soils struggled and died.

I compared it to other grasses in the winter, too. Ordinary grasses may die or turn sparse and scraggly due to frost and winter, but in such weather my Amazon Zoyzia merely went off its green color — it stayed so thick you could walk on it and not get your feet muddy.

Through zero-cold winters and blistering summer droughts . . . through onslaughts by weeds and diseases . . . our Meyer Zoyzia had proved it could "take it." It had earned the right to be called AMAZOY, our Trade Mark published coast to coast and border to border.

HOW AMAZOY CHOKES OUT CRABGRASS AND WEEDS ALL SUMMER LONG!

If costly chemicals fail to control crabgrass (or good, how does Amazon Zoyzia do it? Your deep-rooted, fully established Amazon Zoyzia lawn grows so thick and luxurious that crabgrass seeds just do not germinate!

Your lawn chokes out not only crabgrass, but other weeds all summer long — year after year. You will never need to spend a cent on crabgrass and weed killers again. So if you have wanted to get away from costly and dangerous lawn herbicides, Amazon is your answer.

Your Own Supply Of Plug Transplants

Your established Amazon lawn provides you with plugs for other areas as you may desire.

HERE'S WHY AMAZOY PLUGS ASSURE SUCCESS WHERE OTHER GRASSES FAIL

Due to Amazon's national reputation, other grasses may be offered that sound like it. But Amazon's pre-cut plugs look different, ARE different. They are deep-rooted, winter-hardy plugs produced exclusive for transplanting.

Each large sturdy plug contains 3 square inches or more of living vigorous Zoyzia turf, complete with vigorous root system.

NEVER NEEDS REPLACEMENT

AMAZOY Saves Money, Cut Work. Never a seed to sow again with Amazon! Year after year your lawn grows thicker, like a deep pile carpet. Defies enemies that kill other lawns.

PEOPLE WRITE TO ME

As Mrs. Harry Winston writes to me from the heart of wintry New England:

"How pleased we are with our Zoyzia lawn! We had a lawn that was a disgrace. My husband said: 'weed killers for every lawn' but not Amazon new weeds spring up. We dug the lawn up twice and reseeded. We are amazed about Amazon. It does everything you say."

Mrs. M. E. 2 Times. Writes Woman

"Mrs. M. E. Minor writes me how her lawn is the envy of all who see it. When everybody's lawn around here are brown from drought ours just stays green as ever. I've never watered it, only when I put the plugs in. Last summer we had it mowed (2) times. Amazon thing. I never have to pull any weeds — it's just wonderful!"

Wonderful! Yes, Amazon Zoyzia IS wonderful! Plant it now and you'll cut mowing by 2/3. . . never have another weed problem all summer, for the rest of your life!

PLUG AMAZOY INTO OLD LAWN, NEW GROUND OR NURSERY AREA

Just set Amazon plugs into hole in ground like a cork in a bottle. Plant 1 foot apart, checkerboard style.

When placed in existing lawn areas, plugs will spread to drive out old, unwanted growth including weeds.

AMAZOY CUTS WATERING, CUTS MOWING BY 1/2

Your drought-resistant Amazon lawn not only cuts your water bills, it cuts your work in other ways: it cuts pushing a noisy mower under a broiling summer sun by 1/2. It resists blight, disease, snow insects. IT WILL NOT WINTER-KILL TO 30° BELOW ZERO. After killing frosts, just goes off its green color, regains fresh new beauty every Spring — a true perennial that ends re-seeding forever!

For Slopes, Play Areas, Bare Spots

Or correct problem areas such as slopes where Amazon halts erosion, in hard-to-cover spots, around swim pools, in play areas, etc.

THERE IS NO SEED

Reports U.S. Dept. of Agric., referring to Meyer Z-52 Zoyzia. Experts advise planting only live grass to be sure of getting winter-hardy grass per. by U.S. Govt., Meyer Z-52.

NO BOO

Sod of ordinary grass carries with it the same problems as seed — such as weeds, disease, frequent mowing, burning out, etc. Amazon is sold ONLY in pre-cut plugs . . . never a slab of field grass and YOU must cut up in order to plant.

FREE

Amazon exclusive! No one else can offer you this patented 2-way plunger. Saves bending time, work. Light, rugged, invaluable for transplanting. Cuts away competing growth as it digs plug holes.

MORE THAN A HALF-BILLION PLUGS SOLD, OUTSELLS OTHERS 10 TO 1!

The controlled transplant quality of Amazon has made it another word for Meyer Z-52 Zoyzia . . . the world's best known Zoyzia Grass. If you don't want to take another chance with lawn disappointment, switch to the grass that assures your income: Amazon. We guarantee every plug will grow, no matter your soil or why other grasses have failed you.

Meyer Z-52 Zoyzia Grass Was Perfected by U.S. Govt. Released in Cooperation With U.S. Golf Assoc. as a superior grass.

Order guaranteed Amazon now, get your bonus plug FREE. Your order will be shipped promptly for full-cut growing season.

5 Zoyzia Farm Nurseries, 1977

EVERY PLUG GUARANTEED TO GROW IN YOUR AREA IN YOUR SOIL

- AMAZOY WON'T WINTER-KILL — Has survived temperatures 20° below zero!
- AMAZOY WON'T HEAT-KILL — when other grasses burn out, Amazon turns its leaves!

EVERY PLUG MUST GROW WITHIN 45 DAYS OR WE REPLACE IT FREE.

Since we are hardly in business for the fun of it, you know we have to be sure of our product.

Isn't it Time YOU Switched To The Grass Making Others Obsolete?

It simply doesn't make sense to take another chance on grass that fails you when you want it most. To plant more of the same, bluegrass seed just asks for more of the same, disappointing results. Order Amazon NOW . . . let it spread into thrillingly beautiful turf. And remember this:

If it isn't Amazon, you're not getting the plugs that made Zoyzia famous.

THE DOCTOR AND YOU

New Findings About Headache Pain

To the chronic sufferer of headaches — and to the doctor who is called on to treat the problem — finding a workable cure is not always easy. Moreover, there are many kinds of head pain, and they have different causes.

One widespread type is primarily a dental problem and is brought on by a bad bite. When teeth chew and grind food, there is pressure applied at the jaw joints, which are located in front of the ear. Put your fingers in front of your ears and chew: you will feel a rippling of the jaw joint and muscles. The joints should hinge smoothly. If the bite is not perfect, pain may develop.

These headaches can be on either side of the head or both sides at the same time, but they are most commonly around the temples.

Naturally, the pain will be worse when you are chomping on food, chewing gum or otherwise flapping your jaw. It also can be severe if you are a person who clenches his jaws when upset or under tension.

So sharp, shooting pains that come and go may be due to stress on the joint where the temple meets the jaw, the temporomandibular joint. Doctors and dentists call this TMJ disease for short.

An easy way to determine whether a headache is induced by TMJ disease is to put your fingers into your ears and chew. If pressing on the joints through the ears increases the pain, that's a sure sign. You may need a dentist to clear up the problem. He will balance your bite, filling off portions of some teeth and building up others, in an effort to make it comfortable and free of jaw jiggle. Sometimes jaw exercises and a night brace to keep the jaws open a bit during sleep are recommended.

One thing for sure: this type of headache is less serious and more easily cured than some others, including migraines, which are often severe enough to cause nausea and vomiting.

Migraine seems to be accompanied by an increase in blood flow at the arteries outside the head. So traditional treatment has primarily consisted of medicines which cut down this flow.

About seven years ago, however, a new medicine, was developed for treatment of spasm of the blood vessels to the heart. Doctors noticed that some patients had both heart pain, called angina, and head pain, called migraine. When these patients were treated with the new medicine, most felt improvement in their migraine. So that new medicine, propranolol, was tried for treatment of migraine.

Propranolol dilates the blood vessels of the heart and systemic circulation. In doing this, it lowers the blood pressure and relieves anginal heart pain. No one knows exactly why it works for migraine. But in a study in which about 60 migraine patients were given propranolol for a while and a placebo at another time, about half the patients improved from propranolol.

So propranolol obviously works for some migraine sufferers. However, it has some side effects, including diarrhea, abdominal cramps, irritability, sleeplessness or drowsiness. The drug also has important effects on the heart and circulation.

Migraine treatment is a hit-or-miss proposition. Some patients improve with one drug, others with another. The basic treatment is probably still with methergyside, an LSD analog. But propranolol may prove to be a useful medicine for some patients, although its side effects are still under study.

No, Tylenol is not found safer than Aspirin!

No basis for Tylenol claim, reports U.S. Government agency.

A just-published news release from the Food and Drug Administration reports on the findings of an Expert Advisory Panel, appointed to study non-prescription pain relievers.

Concerning acetaminophen, the ingredient in Tylenol products, "the experts found no basis for claims that this ingredient is safer than aspirin and urged labeling to warn against the danger of liver damage from overdoses."

Here are the experts' actual words: "... some advertising for acetaminophen gives the impression that it is much safer than aspirin and implies that the toxic effects of the drug are less than those encountered with aspirin. Actually, a large overdose of acetaminophen can result in serious liver damage..."

These experts recommended the following warning for all acetaminophen products: "Do not exceed recommended dosage because severe liver damage may occur."

And so—no matter what impression the public might have gotten from Tylenol advertising—Tylenol was not found to be safer than aspirin.

Aspirin, in fact, has given the medical profession over 78 years of excellent experience. It is the most studied and tested drug in medical history. In the conclusions of the AMA Drug Evaluations, aspirin continues to be the "drug of choice." Aspirin! Not Tylenol!

In the words of a specialist at a world-famous medical center:

"Aspirin is undoubtedly the safest pharmaceutical known to modern medicine."

No wonder doctors recommend aspirin 2 to 1 over any other pain reliever.

Now! Let me show you HOW HAND REFLEXOLOGY Can Bring You Instant Relief from Pains All Over the Body...

CURE SPECIFIC AILMENTS!

Simple method requires no expense... No special equipment (just your hands) ...
Can be used by anyone in perfect safety!

Yes, Dear Friend, I want to tell you about a method that can stop pain in all parts of the body almost instantly... and cure specific ailments!

The method is simply reflexology—and is called HAND REFLEXOLOGY. No matter what sort of ailment you suffer, merely by pressing or rubbing certain reflex centers in your hands, you can absolutely relieve the pain, and in most cases, relieve the cause!

Picture above is a master massaging the reflexes in his hands—each having its own reflex lines in his hand. In my book HAND REFLEXOLOGY, you'll see how a man prevented a heart attack with this simple method! "As soon as I started to massage," he says, "the pain had begun to subside. I have never had any trouble since!"

AMAZING QUICK RESULTS!

I am not a doctor, but I have been a professional Reflexologist since 1955. In my years of practicing reflexology, I have never gotten over being amazed at the quick relief people received.

It was as if I pushed a magic button to instant health, in many cases. They would come into the office doubled up with pain and completely helpless, convinced that such a simple thing as massaging certain points in the hands could not possibly help. ... Then the amazed look on their faces when the pain actually stopped, sometimes in seconds!

- There was the stroke victim, who is almost back to normal!
- The minister with back pains who was relieved in minutes!
- The kangaroo viceroy who was relieved almost instantly!
- The person whose stomach and gall bladder pains were relieved almost at once!
- The muscular dystrophy victim who was helped in minutes!
- The hundreds who have been relieved of hemorrhoid pain in minutes!
- The man who passed a stone 10 minutes after using Reflexology!
- The arthritis victim who took his first deep breath in 20 years!
- Victims of new teeth who were relieved—even cured in minutes!
- Impaired vision—even cataract conditions—returned to normal!
- Ear noise, ringing, and deafness cured in minutes!
- Painful menstruation completely relieved—hot flashes and fainting spells ended—painless menstruation started in 5 minutes!

You can see why I want to give this method of HAND REFLEXOLOGY to the world! The results are amazingly fast, bringing relief often in a matter of seconds!

It requires no pills, drugs, tranquilizers, or irritating surgery, can be self-administered with perfect safety, anywhere or any time, and can be used by people of all ages! I have letters from people in their 70's and 80's who are not only using reflex technique on themselves with great benefit, but also on others!

Can you imagine the joy they feel in knowing how to stop their own pains? Can you imagine their joy when they can actually stop the pain of their ailing friends—in which their faces as their suffering subsides after a few minutes of pressing tender reflex buttons on their hands?

NATURE'S GIFT TO RELIEVE PAIN!

As one doctor stated, "I never could have believed what it would do if I had not actually seen... myself. I am more than delighted. And as for CURING a wide variety of ailments—another doctor has written: "... when (reflex) pressure relieves pain, it likewise tends to remove the cause... no matter where this cause originates."

We do not claim that reflexology is a panacea for every ailment, but it CAN relieve pain and suffering. It is a safe, natural way to health—no simple and harmless it can be used by anyone and EVERYONE receives some benefit!

TESTIMONIALS PROVE REFLEXOLOGY WORKS!

I can give you not hundreds, but thousands of case histories I receive through the mail from people all over the world telling me of the wonderful results they are getting by using the simple method of reflex massage. The following unedited testimonials are typical examples:

THOUSANDS REPORT AMAZING RESULTS USING HAND REFLEXOLOGY

Hand Reflexology can stop practically all your aches and pains in a matter of seconds, in many cases, by simply massaging the "reflex buttons" located in your hands, which are connected to all your glands, organs, and the nervous system, says Mildred Carter.

Every time a reflex button is pressed, it instantly sends a charge of magnetic vital life force surging through the body to the particular area with which it is in contact, says Mrs. Carter. Reflexology sends to relieve pain and cure its cause, she states.

Is anesthetic (or pain relieving) qualities are well-known. As far back as 1918, the Medical Director of a hospital in Wisconsin where Reflexology (some therapy) was used stated: "We hardly ever think of using morphine any more."

• "A CURING ANESTHESIA"—"Perhaps we should call Reflexology a curing anesthesia. When it is used to stop pain, it also eliminates the cause of the pain," says Mrs. Carter.

The continuous pressure is held for a few minutes, it will also anesthetize an area to such an extent that it can be operated on. A tooth can be pulled without pain; a cinder may be removed from the eye without blinking.

Anesthesia will last from 20 minutes to 36 of an hour. And as for curing possibilities, she states: "By activating just one tiny pinpoint in your hand—you can send a vital force into a clogged channel, releasing a Linpin that has been the cause of all your trouble."

had was a man in his 30's with a back so bad he would frequently turn to say something—and go crashing to the floor, crawling to a chair to help himself slowly up. Doctors told him he'd only get worse, and recommended surgery. But with Reflex Massage, in a very short time he was free of all pain—able to do all kinds of work, rooming, hiking, etc. That was 17 years ago, and he still has a good, strong back.

I brought my 86-year-old mother back to normal with Reflexology, after she became senile from an operation. I KNOW it worked! Always check with your doctor first. But if he can't help, why not try Reflexology?

It is safe and harmless, used as directed. I am no nurse in active practice, but in my book I can give you the secrets of HAND REFLEXOLOGY: KEY TO PERFECT HEALTH.

Sincerely,
Mildred Carter

MIRACLES OF HEALING REPORTED!

Mildred Carter says: "... In all the years I was practicing reflex massage, I never failed to be astonished at the miracles of healing it brought forth... it seemed like magic..."

STOPS TOOTHACHE!

Mrs. Carter says: "... I developed a painful toothache and could not get into a dentist's office for at least a week... I applied steady pressure to 3 fingers off and on all day until the dentist... said he could see me. He tapped on my teeth but... there was no pain..."

CURES HEADACHES!

A lady suffered from a severe headache for 3 weeks. Doctors had given her drugs, but the relief was only temporary. With Hand Reflexology—in 3 minutes—the pain was entirely gone!

EASES OF BACKACHE UNLEASHED!

A minister who for weeks had been unable to turn in bed without assistance was, after a 20-minute treatment, able to arise and walk unaided.

Another case of backache was so severe that the man was bent almost double and many times had not been able to stand erect. He straightened out completely after his first treatment, and said he was entirely relieved of pain.

STROKE VICTIM HEALED!

Mr. A. reports: My wife had a stroke several years ago but her progress has been very slow. About six weeks ago I started to give my wife (Reflexology) treatments. To my surprise, it worked miracles, and in this short time she is almost back to normal and quite independent.

BRAIN-DAMAGED YOUTH RECOVERS!

Mrs. H. reports: "... my patient was a cardiac arrest and was comatose for three days. She also had brain damage which affected her equilibrium. The doctors said she would not walk for at least six months from the hospital..."

"The doctor told me I could give her the massage... the very second day I observed an immediate response. Within 3 weeks she was walking with help, and in one month she was walking alone and discharged from the hospital..."

GALL-BLADDER RELIEVED!

Another reader reports that pains over the gall bladder were relieved almost at once.

A minister afflicted with otosclerosis (thickening of membranes of inner ear) could barely hear loud talking. In 5 minutes, with Reflexology, he could hear a whisper 20 feet away.

One lady, 45, deaf since she was 6, received a treatment. In 20 minutes she was able to hear ordinary conversation.

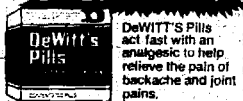

ELIMINATES DAILY DENTURE "FIXINGS" FOREVER

Snug Cushions hold dentures comfortably tight for weeks

No more "fixings" every morning with messy powders or creams. Even if dentures need "fixing" after every meal, here's important news: Snug cushions restore dentures' holding power so dentures stay comfortably tight for weeks. Snug, the soft, effective temporary aid, forms a "comfort bond" between dentures and gums. Sticks to dentures, not to gums. Rinse, scrub or soak. Snug fresh and clean. Easy to remove, but won't wash off or flake away. Set and daily "fixings"! Use Snug to hold dentures comfortably tight for weeks.

We like our bank account that way.

I shall not keep you in suspense:

A farmer heard a loud crash out front and ran out to find a dazed motorist parked at the edge of the road. "What happened?" the farmer asked. "A cow ran in front of me," the motorist replied, "and I hit her." The farmer feared the cow might belong to him. "Was it a Jersey cow?" he asked nervously.

"I don't know," groaned the motorist. "I didn't see her license."

Crimeproofing Your Child

Although no foolproof vaccine exists that can keep your child from being vulnerable to criminals, there are some practical tips that can help. Some suggestions from the FBI:

- The old rule about never taking candy from a stranger is still valid — and the same goes for rides and even walks.
- Tell your children never to admit to being home alone, either to a phone caller or to someone at the door.
- Give instructions to your child's school to release your child only in case of emergency — and only to the people you have designated in writing.
- Arrange for one or two neighbors to help your children if an emergency occurs while you're away. Give the neighbors a phone number where you can usually be reached and offer to do the same for their children.
- If you see a child who appears lost or in trouble, be prepared to help. Don't hesitate to call the police if you think the child needs assistance.

WHAT IN THE WORLD...

Putting The Brakes On Bicycle Thefts

Since half a million bicycles are stolen annually in the U.S., it makes sense to take a few simple precautions to safeguard your bike.

- Never leave your bicycle unchained and unattended, even for a few minutes.
- To secure your bike, use a heavy-duty chain and lock run through the rear wheel and frame and then lock to a stationary object. Remove front wheel if practical.
- Buy a case-hardened chain with a shackle at least $\frac{1}{2}$ " in diameter and a padlock opened by either a key or a combination. Both are available at hardware stores.
- When chaining your bike, secure it in a conspicuous place where there are frequent passersby.

- Don't forget to bring your bicycle indoors for the night.
- Register your bicycle's serial number, make, model and description with the police; even if not required by law. A color photograph of it will also help police in case of theft. Keep a copy of all the information at home.
- You may be able to insure your bicycle through your family's homeowner's or tenant's insurance policy. If your policy doesn't cover bikes, you can purchase special bicycle insurance against theft and damage for a modest cost at both retail and repair shops.

Quick Takes

The National Endowment for the Arts reports that arts outnumber sports fans in the nation's top 20 television markets. ...The wheels of justice turn slowly, according to statistics compiled by state and Federal court systems. Personal-injury cases in Boston, Philadelphia and parts of New York City take 4 years to come to trial. Nationally, personal-injury cases have to wait an average 21 months before the plaintiff has his day in court. ...Eating the wrong foods can give you heartburn, but it seems that children's eating habits can give their parents headaches. Almost 1/3 of the parents interviewed in a national survey, by Yankelovich, Skelly, and White said they were annoyed most by their children's "filling up with snacks between meals." Parents said that "crying and whining" was their second-largest annoyance. Medium blue is now the top choice of American auto buyers, streaking past the 1975 favorite, white. Next, in order of preference, by car buyers, were the earth tones, gold and beige.

Orange Aid

Oranges are turning out to be good for more than just eating. Scientists at the USDA's Citrus and Subtropical Products Laboratory have discovered that orange by-products can be used to manufacture products that clean mechanics' hands and remove sludge from engines. The researchers used d-limonene, the principal component of distilled orange oil, to make an engine-cleaning gel, a lotion hand cleaner and a gel paint remover. Richard L. Coleman, a research chemist at USDA's Winter Haven, Fla., laboratory, says that the orange-oil formulas are effective in removing sludge and grease without being harsh to the hands.

A Cut Above The Rest

If you need an incentive to include the attic on your fall cleaning rounds, here's something to think about — those old pieces of glassware from your grandmother might be worth more than your entire dinner set. Pieces made 40 to 80 years ago are becoming highly collectible, says Mrs. Jane Shadel Spillman, assoc. curator for American glass at the Corning Museum of Glass in Corning, N.Y. For instance, carnival glass, so inexpensive when it was made in the 1920's and 30's that it was used for prizes at carnivals, now can command prices ranging from the high hundreds to the thousands. You also might find cut glass, which was very popular as a wedding gift at the turn of the century. The clarity of cut and condition of the piece are clues to its value, but the best aid in determining the value of a piece of cut glass is the trademark. Mrs. Spillman says it's foolish to think you can tell a piece's value by its ring; the sound simply indicates how close to bell-shaped it is.

Bowler's Toe

You've heard about tennis elbow, but now another popular American sport appears to have its own ailment, and it's called bowler's toe. Dr. Samuel D. Zebrack, a St. Louis podiatrist who teaches bowling to local 12-year-olds in his spare time, says that as many as 1/3 of America's 65 million bowlers may have or may be developing the condition he dubbed bowler's toe. Symptoms of an advanced case are a hammering second toe, calluses behind the toe and a painfully thickened toenail that may make walking or wearing shoes difficult. Zebrack says the condition is caused by the stress placed on the rear foot that the bowler uses as a balance to keep from going over the foul line. Instead of changing their approaches, Zebrack advises bowlers to change their shoes. "The damage is caused by pressure from the stiff cap of the bowling shoe as it bends over the foot. I hope manufacturers will develop shoes with soft caps or no caps at all." In the meantime, switching to soft canvas-top shoes should prevent problems.
